ART BUCHWALD

After five years of effort, the United States has finally got Hanoi to the conference table. But Saigon refuses to come.

WEATHER
Cloudy and cooler with showers today and tonight, and through Sunday. Monday, partially clearing with rain late in the day.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER
Cloudy and a little cooler with occasional rain today and tonight, high in the upper 40s, low in the low 40s. Winds southerly, 10-18 miles per hour, becoming northeasterly eight to 15 miles per hour this afternoon. Probability of precipitation close to 100 per cent today and tonight, Sunday, occasional showers and mild temperature, Monday, partial clearing, with a possibility of rain late in the afternoon. Friday's weather: high 51 degrees, low 35 degrees, .20 inch precipitation, river level 2.6 feet and rising.

KINZUA DAM REPORT
Pool level 1303.15 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum level 1365 feet). Upstream water 50 degrees, downstream water 50 degrees, Warren Gauge 2.61 feet and rising.

WARREN COUNTY
The state announces plans to replace the bridge spanning the Brokenstraw Creek at Irvine. Plans for the new bridge are expected to be completed within several weeks and highway department officials hope to advertise for bids in January or February.

Steps toward the eventual filling of the huge reservoir, that will furnish hydraulic power to the Seneca Electric Company at the Kinzua Dam, has started.

PENNSYLVANIA
Gov. Shafer tells a group of psychiatric attendants from six state institutions that he plans to visit the hospitals to investigate their demands for higher wages and better working conditions.

The statewide power of Philadelphia Mayor James Tate, mentioned by some as the Democratic Party's possible 1970 nominee for governor, is not apparent at this point.

The seven-county Route 219 Association which is working for a border-to-border four lane north-south in Pennsylvania supports a proposed financial plan for 1969 that will increase passenger and station wagon registration fees to $20 and increase truck, tractor, trailer registration fees to eliminate inconsistencies with other states.

State Board of Education reaffirms its opposition to the establishment of new branch campuses by the state-aided and state-related colleges and universities.

The leader of the soon-to-be Democratic majority in the State House of Representatives serves notice on Gov. Shafer that he can expect a tooth and nail fight on his 1969-70 budget—especially if it's tied to new consumer taxes.

THE NATION
The stands are rising at the Capitol, and the parade route is being bird-proofed, and planning is escalating for the $2-million plus inauguration of Richard M. Nixon, Jan. 20.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon sends Soviets message expressing confidence that there can be great strides toward work peace and security in the years just ahead.

President Johnson tells nation and world that he—not President-elect Nixon—will make all decisions on U.S. foreign policy until Nixon is inaugurated.

THE WORLD
Speculators dump a blizzard of francs on European exchanges and France—in economic crisis after strikes and destructive rioting last spring—is expected to plead for massive international aid immediately to stave off currency devaluation.

Communist party Central Committee members battle behind closed doors in a crucial policy debate with the Czechoslovakia public almost completely in the dark about what's going on.

President Nguyen Van Thieu may decide to end his boycott of the Paris peace talks, possibly within two weeks, if he gets certain reassurances from Washington, government sources report.

SPORTS
The New York Jets seem well on their way to clinching the AFL's Eastern Division title; but AP's prognosticator Murray Chass says they won't lock it up this week and he tabs the tough Oakland Raiders to win.

With bowl bids in the offing, this weekend provides a crucial test for several major college teams; and rumors of "unofficial" invitations increase the speculation about which team will play in what bowl come New Year's.

Warren Area High School gym will be the scene of the first basketball game of the season tonight as the Lawmen take on the Warren High faculty in a benefit game.

For Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears, the road to recovery promises to be uneventful, but far too long for the likes of the speedster who was well on his way to an outstanding season before an injury struck him down.

A breather is what poor Pitt's Panthers need. But the likes of the invading Army eleven isn't likely to provide any opportunity for relaxation for the charges of Dave Hart as they seek their second win of the season.

RUSSIANS WARNED

U.S. Warns Any Soviet Attacks Imperil NATO

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States served notice Friday it believes any Soviet attack on Yugoslavia or Austria will imperil the security of the whole 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk also was quoted as telling NATO foreign ministers a Russian thrust into Romania will spark an even greater crisis for Europe than the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Accounts of Rusk's speech were made known to newsmen by conference officials. The secretary's aides broadly confirmed what they called the passing references he made to Austria and Yugoslavia. They neither confirmed nor denied his remarks on Romania explaining Rusk himself could not remember alluding to that independent-minded Communist country.

The North Atlantic Council of foreign ministers, beginning a two-day survey of world affairs and especially of European matters, was debating the implications of the Czechoslovak incident.

Rusk's declaration attracted most attention. Some took his remarks to mean Americans favor an extension of NATO protection to certain non-NATO states. But U.S. officials disputed the validity of any such interpretation.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain had opened the proceedings with a completely unequivocal proposal that NATO warn the Russians any more Czechoslovakias would produce unpredictable consequences.

Stewart named no names, aides said, when he raised the possibility of new Soviet thrust. But he was thinking of both Romania and Yugoslavia, according to his officials.

The lead offered by Rusk and Stewart was picked up by several NATO foreign ministers. Most joined in a massive condemnation of the occupation of Czechoslovakia. There seemed to be a majority wanting Moscow to be put on notice that NATO would not stand idle in the event of new advances.

As Rusk put the situation: any attack against Austria and Yugoslavia by the Russians "would clearly be related to the area of NATO security interests."

The Russians have given no public sign they may be contemplating a sally into either Yugoslavia or Austria.

Yugoslavia under President Tito rejected Moscow domination in 1948—and still has not been invaded.

Austria is a state whose independence and neutrality is guaranteed by the Soviet Union, Britain, the United States and France. The Russians and the Western powers pulled their troops out 12 years ago, Moscow has shown no signs of wanting to go back.

But the ministers of certain Continental powers who have

New Bridge To Span Brokenstraw Creek
The snapping of a U-bolt which put the Rt. 6 bridge over Brokenstraw Creek at Irvine out of commission last weekend was one snap too many and the state now plans to replace the structure with a new wider concrete span.

The State Highway Department announced Friday that plans for a new bridge should be completed within the next several weeks and that bids for construction hopefully would be advertised in January or February.

"If the bids are in on time," James Haas of the department's public information bureau said, "the bridge should be under construction in early spring."

The new bridge will cost about $280,000 and be financed completely by the state, he said.

David Hoffman, bridge engineer at the Franklin office, said the new bridge will consist of two simple 82 ft. precast prestressed concrete spans. The roadway will be 44 feet across and the structure will occupy the same location as the present bridge, he said.

Since, the Youngsville bypass will be opened by the time construction begins, only local traffic will be inconvenienced by a detour, Haas said.

The old bridge was built in the first decade of this century at local expense. With a 13 ton load limit, it has broken down four times.

Thieu May End Peace Talks Boycott

If U.S. Gives Certain Reassurances

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said Saturday that the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments are working to resolve their differences over Saigon's participation in Paris peace talks.

Sources had said earlier that Thieu might end his boycott of the talks if he got certain assurances from Washington.

"President Johnson and I are working," Thieu said. "The United States and Republic of Vietnam governments are working. Everything must be settled with composure and patience, and in an open-minded understanding spirit."

Thieu's comments were distributed by the Vietnam Press, the official government news agency, shortly after he was reported nearing readiness to rejoin provided that Washington guaranteed he would not have to form a coalition government with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The reassurances included a pledge from Washington that Thieu will never have to accept a coalition with the Communist-led Viet Cong, these sources said.

The informants said there was a growing feeling among members of Thieu's government and members of the Senate and National Assembly that South Vietnam must join the Paris negotiations eventually.

Any decision on the peace talks issue probably would follow a reshuffle of the Cabinet, informants said. If a stronger cabinet is created, Thieu would feel more secure and might not feel it necessary that his delegation outrank that of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front at Paris.

It was Thieu's refusal to meet the front as an equal that led to his boycott and forced the United States to postpone the opening of the expanded Paris talks Nov. 6.

Diplomatic sources said Washington is disposed to accept Thieu's wishes—he also has demanded that South Vietnam head the allied delegation with the front taking a secondary role behind North Vietnam—but they cautioned there were other complications.

Some of the complications may lie in the tug and push of South Vietnamese politics.

Authoritative sources reported Premier Tran Van Huong had submitted his resignation to Thieu Thursday, but the premier's press spokesman denied this.

While Thieu is the real power in government, Huong is widely respected. A former mayor of Saigon, he has been the source of much of the public support for the government.

Bishops Reach Compromise On Birth Control Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's bishops opened the way Friday for Catholic married couples to use contraceptives if their consciences permit it.

The bishops said couples will not be cut off from communion or turned away from the church for breaking Pope Paul VI's continued ban on all artificial birth control.

They suggested certain circumstances—although they named none—can reduce the moral wrong, as their church views it, of disobeying the ban.

The compromise, stitched together after a week of controversy over birth control and the Vietnam war, was passed 180 to 8 by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops just before its windup.

The bishops backed conscientious objection to a specific war and called over-all for an end to the military draft. They questioned whether the war in Vietnam is worth its cost in human suffering.

The bishops said Vietnam had demonstrated that military force alone is not enough to solve international political conflicts or accomplish peace.

The Catholic leaders stressed their support for the Pope's encyclical on birth control. But they recognized that married couples may be faced with conflicts.

The bishops made clear that the choice of conscience for Catholics must not be a shallow or self-serving decision.

"They must weigh this matter as if they stood before God," said Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh, who headed the committee that shaped the pastoral letter.

Czech Reds In Crucial Policy Debate
PRAGUE (AP) — Communist party Central Committee members battled on behind closed doors in a crucial policy debate Friday with the Czechoslovak public almost completely in the dark about what was going on.

Some reports filtering out of the meeting said pro-Soviet, or conservative speakers were making personal attacks on party chief Alexander Dubcek and other reform leaders in the session's second day.

Sofar, about three dozen committee members have spoken. More than 100 others were scheduled to speak.

There was no report in the press and radio about the speeches, and the public could only wonder how committee decisions would affect them in this Soviet-occupied country.

Prague students, showing their apprehension, planned sit-in demonstrations in their departments beginning over the weekend to protest a recent clampdown on the press and ban on demonstrations.

LBJ Disputes Nixon's Remarks on Foreign Policy Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation and the world emphatically Friday that he—not President-elect Richard M. Nixon—will make all decisions on U.S. foreign policy until Nixon is inaugurated.

Johnson appeared to dispute statements by Nixon about "prior consultation and prior agreement" between them. And qualified informants said the president-elect holds no veto power over Johnson action.

But the Nixon camp moved swiftly to head off any major blowup. A top assistant to the president-elect assured Johnson that Nixon has no intention of intruding into the foreign-policy prerogatives of the White House.

Sources close to the incoming president said in New York that Bryce N. Harlow, already named as a special presidential assistant to Nixon, phoned Johnson Thursday and Friday to assure him there is no attempt "to presume on the constitutional authority of the President."

Harlow was said to be convinced there is no basic misunderstanding or disagreement between Johnson and Nixon over the mechanics of the transition of power.

Although he took pains to assert his authority, Johnson gave a personal and special welcome to Robert D. Murphy, Nixon's liaison man on foreign affairs.

And administration officials said privately there would be extensive consultation with the incoming president although the arrangement between him and Johnson is apparently vague and imprecise.

Friday's note of discord in the so-far harmonious atmosphere of the post-election period suggested that Nixon's announcement Thursday of a firm advance-consultation agreement on foreign policy had annoyed Johnson. He reportedly decided to make it clear that as far as he is concerned the country can have only one president at a time.

"The decisions that will be made between now and January 20th," Johnson said, "will be made by this President and by this secretary of state and by this secretary of defense."

He spoke slowly and swung his hand to emphasize his declaration.

When Nixon and Johnson met in Washington Monday, Johnson announced he would do what he could in the transition period to make the wheels of government turn efficiently.

Nixon said then the United States must speak with one voice in that period and he had authorized Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford to tell the NATO allies in Brussels this week that they are speaking for the new administration as well as the present one.

In New York Thursday asked whether he had Johnson's assurance that he would be consulted on "any foreign policy decisions in the next 60 days," he said:

"Not only his assurance but his and my insistence that that be done."

"Of course," Nixon continued, "as far as any decision on that is concerned—like obviously any arrangement with the Soviet Union—it would be essential that there be prior consultation and prior agreement."

When he was asked whether Johnson would take no course of action unless Nixon had approved, he said:

Nixon Tells Soviets All People Yearn for Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon has sent to the Soviet Union a message expressing confidence that there can be great strides toward world peace and security in the years just ahead.

"It is now more essential than ever," Nixon said, "that our two peoples work together, in a spirit of mutual respect and with a recognition of the special responsibilities we share for the peace of the world."

"I am sure," Nixon said, "great strides can be taken in the years just ahead, toward the genuine peace and security that people everywhere yearn for."

Nixon put forth his views in a telegram, sent Thursday and made public Friday, to Nikolai V. Podgorny, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet. Podgorny had sent a message of congratulations to Nixon this week.

During his campaign for the presidency, Nixon said he favored a series of summit meetings between the leaders of the two countries, but a Nixon aide said the message has nothing to do with that.

Nixon also named a White House press aide Friday—29-year-old Ronald L. Ziegler, a Los Angeles advertising man. Ziegler, however, will not carry the title of press secretary. He was named a special assistant to the president, one step below the level of assistant to the president.

Under the new White House staff structure evolving in Nixon's transition headquarters here, the traditional press secretary involved in policymaking and interpreting will not exist, the Nixon camp says.

H. R. "Bob" Haldeman, an assistant to the president-elect, said Nixon recognizes the need for Ziegler to be fully informed and, consequently, the press aide will sit in on policymaking. Ziegler described his conception of the job: "There has to be a spirit of openness, honesty and mutual respect."

The new press spokesman was traveling press secretary to

Seneca Generating Plant Reservoir Being Filled

The initial steps towards the eventual filling of the huge reservoir that will furnish hydraulic power to the Seneca Generating Plant being constructed for the Pennsylvania Electric Company and the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company at the Kinzua Dam was started last night. Two 500-horsepower pumps were employed to start the waters of the Allegheny Reservoir flowing into the 22-foot tunnel that leads from the river level to the reservoir some 800 feet above the input point.

While it is expected that as many as two billion gallons of water will be required to fill the reservoir to capacity, the operation started yesterday is only a testing operation and the complete filling will not be attempted for at least a couple of months. According to Bill Bruckman, chief engineer for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, only limited amounts of water will be pumped into the tunnel at four hour intervals over the weekend so that each 100 foot rise of the tunnel level can be thoroughly checked by officials of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, both electric companies, and the Harza Engineering Company, consultants.

As yet, Bruckman said, the reverse of the turbines that will eventually be used to lift the water to the reservoir and generate power as it is returned are not ready for use. At least one of the turbines and a smaller non-reversible generator will be ready for testing in a couple of months, but until that time the lesser pumps will be used as the testing progresses.

According to early estimates, it is expected the Seneca Project will be ready for operation some time next spring, with all testing of the reservoir fully completed by the end of February.

Inauguration Preparations Underway at Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stands are rising at the Capitol, the parade route is being bird-proofed, and planning is escalating for the $2-million-plus inauguration of Richard M. Nixon Jan. 20.

President-elect Nixon has chosen the historic, traditional inauguration of American presidents, with inaugural balls and a parade from the Capitol to the White House.

It is planned, however, to keep the parade shorter than usual, ending it in two or two and one-half hours. Each state will be allowed one marching band and one float.

J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the 1969 inaugural committee, told a news conference Friday that Nixon believes an inauguration is a national occasion and he desires to stay with the tradition.

The inaugural theme will be "Bring Us Together," the phrase Nixon saw on a campaign placard held up by a young girl in Deshler, Ohio.

Asked if he is concerned about interruptions or disorders during the events, Marriott said the Secret Service, which protects the President and president-elect, is in charge of security.

The inauguration events include a governors' reception, a distinguished ladies' reception, and a concert with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and the National Symphony Orchestra. The choir sang at President Johnson's 1965 inauguration.

Various individuals and businesses will be asked to underwrite the $2-million estimated cost of the festivities, with the money expected to be repaid through sales of and advertising in the official program, plus receipts from grandstand tickets and the balls.

Congress has appropriated $400,000 for the stands on the east front of the Capitol for the presidential oath taking at 12 noon on Jan. 20, and is in charge there.

Along the historic Pennsylvania Avenue parade route the starlings are being given their quadrennial hot foot to keep them away from the 100 trees on the Avenue and protect the spectators below.

The gooey compound which is guaranteed to keep the birds away for at least a year has been sprayed on the trees for the last three inaugural parades. This year the cost is $10,000.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Adolph J. Mintzer

Funeral services for Adolph J. Mintzer, Morris Plains, N.J., a former Warren resident, who died Friday, Nov. 8, 1968, were held in the Strauch Funeral Home, Scranton, at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Burial was in Moscow, Pa., Cemetery.

Mr. Mintzer was born in Warren, the son of Karl and Alice Mintzer. He was a New Jersey resident 25 years. He was employed as a draftsman by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, in Scranton. For many years, he worked as a draftsman for the Allen Engineering Corp., Newark, N.J.

He is survived by his wife, the former Levisa Nosen; two daughters, Alice, at home, and Mrs. William (Joan) Sedinger, Edison, N.J.; two sons, Robert J., Denville, N.J., and Carl S., Rahway, N.J.; four grandchildren; a brother, Harry, Russell, Pa. His brother, Leon, died in 1967.

Martin Yucha

Funeral services for Martin Yucha, 81, Pittsfield, Rt. 2, who died at his home Tuesday, were held from St. Luke's Church in Youngsville Friday, Nov. 15, 1968, at 10 a.m. The Rev. Norman Smith, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Warren, celebrated a Requiem Mass.

Serving as bearers for burial in Riverside Cemetery at Pittsfield were Robert Yucha, Steven Yucha, Tom Yucha, George Yucha, Marty Yucha and Andrew Zolko, all grandchildren of the deceased. The rosary was recited at the McKinney Funeral Home Thursday at 9 p.m.

Shafer To Probe Demands Of Psychiatric Attendants

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer told a group of psychiatric attendants from six state institutions Friday that he planned to visit the hospitals to investigate their demands for higher wages and better working conditions.

Gilbert L. Green, a psychiatric aide at Haverford State Hospital and leader of the group, said they were seeking significant increases in salaries of all classes of attendants.

Currently, attendants' salaries start at $3,900 a year and his group wants it raised to $5,100.

The governor, in turn, said he would give the wage proposal "careful consideration" but could not make any definite decision until the middle of January when his proposed 1969-70 budget will be solidified, a Shafer aide reported.

The governor has indicated he will seek an across-the-board 5 per cent increase for state employees next year.

The psychiatric aides' proposal amounts to about 25 per cent but Green said, "Percentages don't mean anything. We're looking for dollars and cents."

He added, "Our salaries are so low, 5 per cent won't mean anything."

Green, as chairman of the embryonic Haverford Hospital Psychiatric Attendants Association, led a two-day demonstration in September in which about half of the attendants called in sick to dramatize their demands.

The hospital has about 200 attendants to care for 607 patients.

Anthony Clark of Eastern State Hospital and School at Trevoise said the attendants felt their demands were as much for the patients' benefit as their own.

"Better salaries would help combat the high turnover, tardiness and absenteeism most state hospitals face," he said, thereby improving patient care.

Arab Denies He Plotted Assassination

NEW YORK (AP) — A Yemeni Arab denied Friday night that he plotted with his sons to assassinate President-elect Richard M. Nixon, pleading with open emotion, "I love America—I'm innocent."

"I have nothing to do against the United States of America," said Ahmed Ragueh Namer, 43, his chin trembling, his voice close to breaking. "I'm happy in this country. How am I gonna do that?"

Namer was released on $25,000 bond and met newsmen later at the office of his lawyer, Joseph Iovine. The lawyer refused to let the defendant answer questions about the case following Namer's statement of innocence.

Earlier in the day, Acting Dist. Atty. Elliott Golden of Brooklyn denied that he had questioned the veracity of his key witness and informer in the case against Namer and his two sons, Hussein, 20, and Abdo Namer, 19.

seen their lands invaded in the past seemed on the whole more concerned to muffle their own and the over-all allied responses.

Michel Debre of France, Giuseppe Medici of Italy, Pierre Harmel of Belgium and Joseph Luns of Holland all underlined the need for the allies to pursue the quest for East-West detente, a relaxing of tensions.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt of West Germany, whose country feels itself more exposed than most to Soviet pressures, compared the Czechoslovak affair to an earthquake in its effects.

He expressed a hope nonetheless for a new dialogue with the Communist world.

Debre suggested Russia's invasion showed the Kremlin's interest in preserving the concept and practice of coexistence with the West. As Frenchmen saw it, he said, detente was an essential precondition for peace.

It was Rusk's swan song as chief American representative to NATO and his colleagues were warm in their praise for him.

A reflective mood marked the secretary's world-ranging address in which he dwelt on the major issues of war and peace, of the young and the old, of the decencies and the excesses in American public life.

Among Rusk's major points: —It is highly important for the powers to draw the right lessons from the two World Wars because if there were to be a World War III it would be too late for anyone to draw any lessons from it.

—He urged Europeans not to judge Americans by what they saw on television of the election campaign when Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was slain and the excesses of the Democratic party convention in Chicago were highlighted. Real Americans were the 200 million ordinary folk who went about their de-cent business just like other ordinary people in the rest of the world.

Whether Lyndon B. Johnson or Richard M. Nixon is in the White House the United States will fulfill its commitments to Europe and won't withdraw.

—America ultimately will resume talks with the Soviet Union on ways of controlling anti-ballistic missile production and nuclear arms. This dialogue was interrupted by the invasion of Czechoslovakia. NATO will be kept informed.

—Perhaps the first item facing the new U.S. Congress in January will be ratification of the East-West treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Rusk also dissected, as he put it, the anatomy of the Vietnam negotiations which over recent months led to President Johnson's bombing halt. He said hard fighting lies ahead in South Vietnam but he stressed peace negotiations need not be held up.

Headed another note of caution—the North Vietnamese had pulled a large number of troops out of the South, to Laos, Cambodia and back home, but they could always return.

Even if all goes well, Rusk stressed, the peace talks will be long and difficult.

Nixon

Nixon during the campaign. The role of Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief press aide, has not been decided, Haldeman said.

Haldeman also announced the appointment of Dwight Chapin, 28, a native of California now living in Cos Cob, Conn., as special assistant for handling Nixon's daily schedule and travel plans. This job replaces the traditional title of appointments secretary.

Ziegler spent 5 1/2 years with the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency in Los Angeles. He is a 1961 graduate of the University of Southern California.

Chapin also is a USC graduate, class of 1962. And he is another alumnus of the J. Walter Thompson agency, making three all told in the new administration—Haldeman, Ziegler and Chapin.

Nixon spent the day in staff conferences and meetings with Frederick R. Kappel, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph; George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO; Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; and Whitney Young, head of the National Urban League.

No details of the meetings were forthcoming from the Nixon camp, but Kappel said he discussed reorganization of the Post Office and personnel appointments.

Orchestra to Observe 20th Anniversary

France Takes Steps to Stave Off Currency Devaluation

PARIS (AP) — Speculators dumped a blizzard of francs on European exchanges Friday and France—in economic crisis after strikes and destructive rioting last spring—is expected to plead for massive international aid immediately to stave off currency devaluation.

As European central bank governors prepared to discuss the French woes at their monthly meeting in Basel, Switzerland, this weekend, not speculative trading lowered the price of the franc, worth about 20 U.S. cents. At the same time the British pound fell to its lowest level in 10 months.

In London, financial experts expressed concern that the world was on the verge of a monetary crisis and some predicted Britain might be forced to tighten its already severe credit squeeze to meet the pressure.

Saigon Moving Closer To Peace Talks Role

PARIS (AP) — There was a general air of expectancy among American officials here Friday that a South Vietnamese decision to join the Paris peace talks may be imminent.

But they avoided making any prediction on when President Nguyen Van Thieu might drop his boycott and end a two-week deadlock on what role should be played in the talks by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Thieu saw U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon Friday morning for the first time in nearly a week and a full report on their talk was sent to Ambassador W. Averell Harr-man, chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris talks.

In Brussels, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that the talks, once they begin, could go on for a long time and may be accompanied by more hard fighting.

Rusk told his NATO colleagues that the formula under which the United States and North Vietnam agreed to enlarge the peace talks was kept deliberately vague.

The formula in principle allowed each to organize its side of the table as it wished, without obliging the other to approve or recognize the participants.

Thus, the United States informed North Vietnam it would invite the Saigon government to the conference table.

North Vietnam informed the United States it would invite the Front. The United States insisted that the talks thus would proceed on a two-sided basis, while Hanoi insisted the talks have become a "four-party conference."

Neither the United States nor North Vietnam accepted the other's interpretation of the agreement. But this difference would not have prevented enlarged talks getting underway Nov. 6 as scheduled.

Thieu had approved the ambitious formula.

Instead, Thieu balked at the agreement and said he would not send a delegation if the Front, a rebel movement in South Vietnam, were given the status of an independent delegation.

Thieu proposed a two-point alternative which would place the American negotiators under South Vietnamese direction and would require a formal commitment from Hanoi to downgrade the Front delegation to an integral component of the North Vietnamese delegation.

American officials said the first of Thieu's points might be negotiable between Saigon and Washington, but there was no way the United States could be compelled to organize the talks in accordance with Thieu's wishes.

Thieu's proposal was consistent with an announcement that Hanoi had made in a public square. Roy of the east from Conewango ave. will also be present for the meeting.

Voting Percentage Lowest Since 1956

WASHINGTON (AP) — The smallest percentage of voters in 12 years cast ballots in the 1968 presidential election.

An analysis of national polls shows the estimated 72 million people who voted Nov. 5 cast only 60.5 per cent of the total.

Society Opposes Move To Combine City's Hospitals

JAMESTOWN — The Jamestown Medical Society has joined a growing list of organizations opposing the city government's plan to take over the two hospitals in the town and combine them into one.

The report calls for combining the facilities of the city and the General Hospital.

The resolution passed by the medical society urges that action be taken until the report is studied by professional and laymen.

The board of Jamestown General Hospital and the Jamestown Medical Society have urged the city to take no action pending further study.

All three groups subscribing to the belief that the existing competitive spirit between the city and the General is a healthy situation.

Earlier this week, Mayor Charles E. Magnuson urged the city to adopt and implement its plan.

Balance of Payments Surplus Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Department interpreters said quarterly surplus in the balance of payments amounted to $1.3 billion Friday—after a long string of deficits—proof the administration had picked effective medicines to relieve the chronic U.S. gold drain.

But they were equally quick to point out that the $35 million surplus was a temporary reprieve.

Sugar Grove Legion to Host Convention

Sugar Grove American Legion Post 758 will be host to the 28th District Convention Saturday, June 28, 1969.

The post plans to raise at least $1,000 to make the convention a success. It plans to hold a dinner at least once a month. The fourth dinner will be held at 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, with spaghetti as the main course. A party will be held at the club at 8:30 p.m. today.

Conrad M. Ross, a post member, who is district vice commander, is scheduled to be named the best district commander during the convention. Merle Thibault is general chairman of the convention committee and Ross is treasurer. Ross is accepting convention donations at 333 High St., Youngsville.

The post held its Veterans Day program with a wreath being placed in the park.

The parking rail on the church side of the building has been completed with a primer coat of paint. The final coat will be applied in the spring. The temporary railing on the other side of the building will be replaced with a permanent one in the spring.

The post will play host to the Warren Forest Council meeting at 7 p.m. next Tuesday. Dinner is $1.50 and reservations must be made in advance. Thibault is in charge of reservations. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. and is open to all members.

Plank Road School State Aid Approved

The last one-room school in this area was a topic of discussion at the meeting of the State Board of Education in Harrisburg Friday.

The State Board approved a full teaching unit for the Plank Road School several miles northwest of Warren. The school, remotely located, has 18 pupils, from the first through fifth grades.

Dr. Thomas K. Barratt, Warren County superintendent of schools, said the approval was a routine procedure yearly and enabled the school to get more state aid than it would on a per pupil basis.

Mrs. James Marshall has been the only teacher at the school for a number of years.

Route 219 Assn. Endorses Registration Fee Hike

BROCKWAY — The seven-county Route 219 Association which is working for a border-to-border four lane highway north-south in Pennsylvania is supporting a proposed financial plan for 1969 that would increase passenger and station wagon registration fees to $20 and increase truck, tractor and trailer registration fees to eliminate inconsistencies with other states.

The plan has been proposed by Secretary of Highways, Robert G. Bartlett and has the approval of Governor Raymond P. Shafer. It now awaits enactment by the General Assembly.

The recommended plan also calls for long-term bond authorization effective July 1, 1971 which would raise $650 million dollars. The increased registration fees would produce an estimated average annual increase of $65 million. Marshall P. Jetty, president of Brockway Pressed Metals, Inc. and head of the 219 Association, said that his organization is urging all members of the Pennsylvania Legislature to support the proposal in order to provide additional funds for the badly-needed highway improvement program of the State.

Jetty pointed out that only the state of Louisiana has a lower fee than Pennsylvania for auto registration. Furthermore, he said, the proposed increase for autos is the first since 1943.

The Association president stated, in regard to truck registration fees, that at present a 72,000 pound tractor-trailer combination in Pennsylvania pays $425 per year and under the proposed increase it would pay $503.

By comparison, New York truckers pay more than $2,100 while those in Ohio pay $1,900. Truckers in Texas and Wisconsin pay more than $900 as compared with Pennsylvania's current fee of $425.

"The Route 219 Association," Jetty said, "is in accord with the Department of Highways' long-range planning for better highways through the use of the State Highway Commission and its six-year programs."

"We believe, however, that there is a real need for additional revenue to fund the program and Secretary Bartlett's plan would provide $975 million to complete the financing through 1973."

Route 219, which starts in the north near Bradford, McKean County, and goes to the southern border in Somerset County, has recently been recommended by Governor Shafer for inclusion in the Interstate Highway System.

The Association has dubbed the corridor the "North Star Way" and is working with a similar association in New York State to promote the highway from Buffalo south to Bluefield, West Virginia.

The Association has chapters in McKean, Elk, Clearfield, Jefferson, Cambria, Indiana, and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania.

Opposition to Branch Campuses Reaffirmed

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Board of Education reaffirmed its opposition Friday to the establishment of new branch campuses by state-added and state-related colleges and universities.

By a unanimous vote, the board expanded on its previous position by outlining steps for the possible phasing out of branch campuses already in existence.

Locally, Francis W. Johnson, director of Warren Off Campus of Edinboro State College, said the board's action, if carried to completion through the legislature, could possibly affect the local institution.

While it is purely speculation now, it is "a foot in the door," he added.

Director Johnson said he was hopeful conditions at the local school will remain as they are. He pointed out Warren Off Campus is not in competition with any community college and is providing education for students who might otherwise have to travel farther from home in search of higher education.

The action was merely a recommendation and aimed especially at Pennsylvania State University, which has 18 commonwealth campuses across the state.

The board first spoke out against additional branch campuses in its Master Plan for Higher Education, adopted in 1966. The recommendation, however, was ignored by Penn State.

In its latest policy statement, the board called for associate degree programs at branch campuses to be phased out in three years in areas where community colleges exist.

The phase-out would occur in six years in other areas, except where the superintendent of public instruction found reason for the programs to continue.

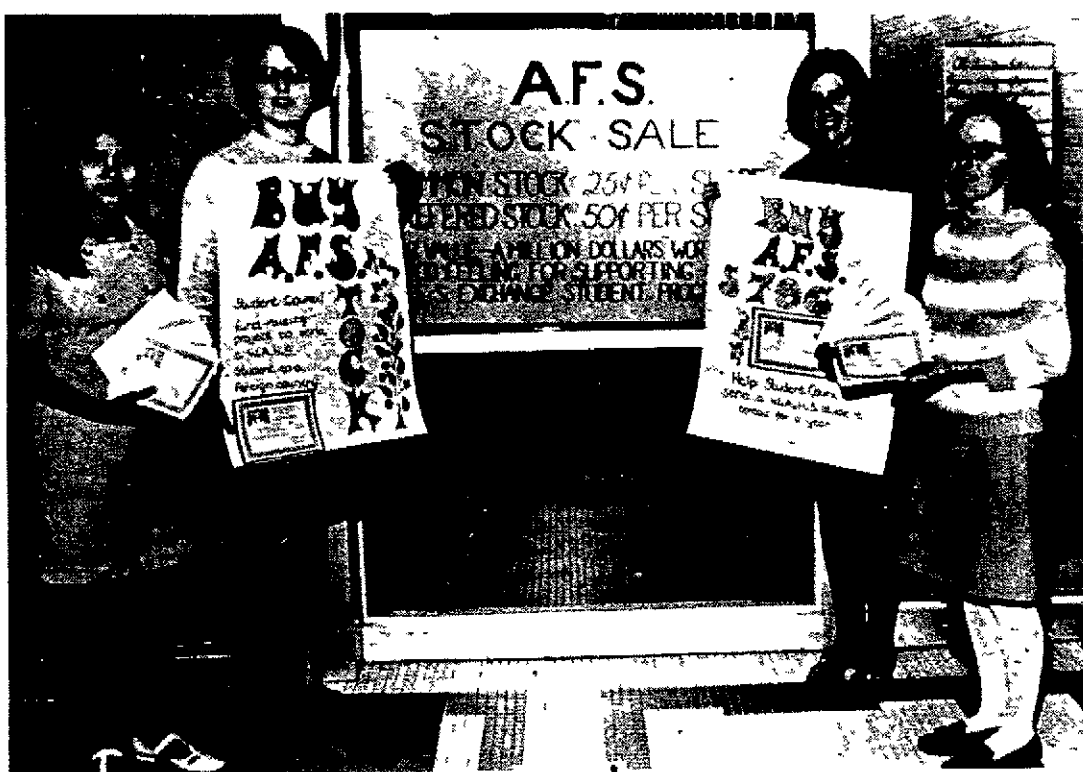

The board recommended that the transfer programs at each branch campus be reviewed by the superintendent to determine whether they should be continued or abolished.

An associate degree is one that can be earned at a two-year college, such as a branch campus, while a transfer program involves continuance of studies at a four-year institution.

The board has long felt that a proliferation of branch campuses in Pennsylvania would endanger the status of two-year community colleges.

The board's latest action was the result of a one-year study on branch campuses by Heald, Hobson and Associates, a private consulting firm.

In the other action, the board gave the superintendent of public instruction greater discretion in granting state colleges university status.

SELLING STOCK FOR A STUDENT SOJOURN

WAHS Student Council Sells 'Stocks' to Finance Program

Warren Area High School students have chosen a novel way to finance a trip abroad for a member of the student body. The Student Council, aided by the local chapter of the American Field Service, is selling shares of preferred and common stock to underwrite the cost of this program.

Kathleen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams, and Beth Seifert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Seifert, were winners in the AFS screening to send a Warren High School student abroad next year. Runner-up was Carolyn Farynowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Farynowski.

David, Julie Warmup For March Down Aisle

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower march down the aisle in a marriage warmup as participants in the Saturday wedding of David's sister, Anne, in a private chapel ceremony in historic Valley Forge.

The 19-year-old granddaughter of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will marry Fernando Echavarría Uribe, 25, an insurance executive from Bogota, Colombia.

The wedding announcement three weeks ago came as a surprise to Nixon-Eisenhower watchers. They had expected David's marriage to President-elect Richard M. Nixon's daughter to be the first among the former president's four grandchildren.

Rumors are David and Julie will marry in December, but no date has been announced. Barbara Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. D. Eisenhower of Phoenixville, Pa., a small community 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia.

The noon ceremony will take place in the family's home church, Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge National Park. The rustic stone church is located some 10 minutes from the bride's home.

A family friend reports the Eisenhowers want the wedding as small and private as possible. News media representatives will be barred.

A close friend said Anne and Fernando spent this week shopping for their apartment in Bogota.

"Anne seems quite thrilled," she said. "After all, they are just like any normal couple—bubbling over with excitement about the big day."

The wedding will take place in a small English-Gothic building patterned after Kings College at Cambridge. The chapel stands on high ground in the middle of Valley Forge National Park, near the encampment where George Washington's army spent the miserable winter of 1777-1778.

The chapel, started in 1903, is famous for its beautiful stained glass windows, hand carved oak choir stalls, and the "pews of the patriots," each named for an early American hero.

Carillonneur Frank Law will play the couple's choice of traditional wedding selections on the chapel's 58-bell carillon. Law said there would be no other music for the ceremony "because they don't use organs for weddings in Colombia."

ters' daughter, Becky are both seniors at Warren High School.

Preferred stock is .50 per share with common stock at 25 cents per share. It is hoped Warren residents will "share" in the wonderful experience of having an AFS foreign student here in our schools and community and of sending one of our Warren girls to another country for a year!

Fifteen hundred dollars is required to bring a foreign exchange student here and to send a Warren High School student abroad for one year.

All members of Student Council, members of the American Field Service Committee, volunteers from all classes in the high school and the community chapter of American Field Service will have shares of stock for sale.

Lee Kestler and Greg Fino are co-chairmen of the Stock Sale.

School Subsidy Payments Approved

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — School subsidy payments for the Warren County School District have been approved by the Department of Public Instruction in the amount of $1,636,267.61, and forwarded by the State Treasurer to the local school district treasurer.

The payments represent semi-annual state reimbursement covering the school year ending June 30, 1968, and are made to cover such items as reimbursable teaching units, supplemental payment on account of jointure membership or union or merged districts, extension education, homebound instruction and special education.

Leading Democrat Predicts Tooth and Nail Budget Fight

HARRISBURG (AP) — The leader of the soon-to-be Democratic majority in the state House of Representatives says Gov. Shafer can expect a tooth and nail fight on his 1969-70 budget — especially if it is tied to new consumer taxes.

Chief among the consumer taxes being aired by Shafer and Republican legislators is a state income tax.

Republican leaders say the governor put them on notice earlier this week that the budget he will present in January will run between $2.1 to $2.4 billion. He also indicated he was generally opposed to new taxes on business.

Herbert Fineman, D. Philadelphia, current House minority leader and chief contender for the House speakership when the Democrats take over in January, already sees opposition to Shafer on two counts.

"We (the Democrats) are going to control all the committees in the House, and we're going to take a hard look at expenditures and possible new taxes to finance them," Fineman said Friday.

Fineman said the Democrats will favor "closing tax loopholes for industry" first before agreeing to levy new consumer taxes — "if they are necessary."

Shafer told newsmen earlier this week he was opposed to new taxes on business because he feared it would "change the climate that brings in 3,000 new jobs to Pennsylvania every month."

Fineman said, however, Democrats wanted to shift more of the tax burden from the consumer to business. The main revenue source, he noted, was a consumer tax — the sales tax.

By removing sales tax exemptions for industry along with other exemptions, the state could net an additional $140 million in revenue, Fineman said. "We're going to close the loopholes first then take a hard look at the expenditures before we consider an income tax," he added.

"And this year, we're not going to bleed for fiscal information like we did last year," said the Democratic leader. "We're going to make the administration defend its requests."

Republican leaders said Shafer gave them a preview of his tentative budget ceilings at a private dinner at his Indiantown Gap mansion earlier this week.

Shafer reportedly had two proposals:

— A "starvation" budget of $2.1 billion which would barely cover costs of programs already mandated by the General Assembly.

— A "still-lean" $2.4 billion budget which would include funds for promised programs such as teacher and state employee pay hikes and increases in public welfare and higher education.

The current fiscal budget is about $2 billion.

Senate President Pro Tem Robert D. Fleming, R-Allegheny said Republican feeling favored consumer taxes over business taxes. Consumer taxes, he said, means probably an income tax. "The time has come," he said, "for legislators to put aside party differences and do what is best for the people of Pennsylvania."

Both publicly and privately, Shafer has been hedging on which kind of taxes he favors. He has not publicly endorsed or rejected an income tax, he explained to newsmen this week, because he is awaiting a report from his Tax Study Commission.

If an income tax is proposed, the real question will be how much and how it would be levied, Fineman and Fleming confirmed.

While the state constitution prohibits a graduated income tax, it has been suggested that a 2 or 3 per cent income tax could legally be levied against net income after federal taxes, said Fleming.

This would in effect be a graduated tax because it would be based on "Line 9" of the Internal Revenue Service Form 1040 and would represent income after various deductions.

Under this plan, a single man making $5,000 a year would pay a higher state income tax than a family man making the same salary because the married man with children would have several deductions for dependents.

The other method would be a flat levy — probably one per cent — on a person's gross income, similar to city wage taxes.

City Faces $15 Million Budget Deficit for 1969

PITTSBURGH (AP) — City council's finance committee chairman said Friday Pittsburgh faces a $15 million budgetary deficit for 1969 and may try to tax hospitals and other nonprofit organizations to wiggle out of a financial bind.

Phillip Baskin said the city is not currently authorized to levy taxes on nonprofit groups and would have to ask permission of the State Legislature.

He said the proposal under consideration would tax the revenues of hospitals and private clubs like the exclusive Duquesne Club or the neighborhood American Legion meeting hall.

He said the city was not thinking about taxing churches at the present time.

The tax was one of a number of measures Baskin outlined at a news conference as possible ways for the city to get itself out of its dilemma.

Baskin said the city was not in the red for 1968 but normal increases in salaries, pensions and equipment costs along with fat pay hikes for police and firemen will leave the city with the huge deficit next year.

Baskin, a Democrat, blamed the city's economic woes on what he said was the failure of Republican legislators in Harrisburg to approve broader taxing powers for big cities.

"The GOP legislators are sitting on the bank with all the life saving equipment while we're drowning, and they won't throw us a line," he said.

Other revenue possibilities, he said, are a business privilege tax, and hikes in parking, water and real estate taxes.

He said a four mill business privilege tax and 10 per cent increases in water and parking taxes would net the city an additional $4.3 million.

He said increases in real estate taxes of 10 mills on land, five on buildings would bring in an additional $9 million.

Jamestown Man Sentenced On Larceny Count

PRO PICKS

Jets Won't Clinch Title Against Oakland

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Quit while you're ahead.

That's the advice that's been given to this pro football prognosticator, and perhaps that's the advice he should pass on to the New York Jets.

The Jets have a 7-2 record and are within sight of clinching their first Eastern Division crown in the American Football League. The Jets thought they were within sight of their first crown last year, too, but their 7-2-1 record turned into 8-5-1.

Although their chances appear much better this time, the clinching could be delayed somewhat by a two-game trip to the West Coast, starting Sunday against Oakland.

The pro prognosticator will find it difficult to beat last week's record, which turned out to be 11-1, the only mistake coming in the New York Giants' upset of the Dallas Cowboys.

That brought the record for the past two weeks to 22-3 and the season to 81-32 for a .717 percentage.

Here goes for this Sunday:

AFL

Oakland 14, New York 10—Raiders have more at stake than Jets at this point although outcome could be different if Daryle Lamonica can't play.

Kansas City 30, Boston 6—Chiefs aren't sure about their quarterback, Len Dawson, either, but it doesn't matter. San Diego 28, Buffalo 20—speaking of quarterbacks, although the Bills would rather not, John Hadl is sound and too much for Buffalo.

Houston 21, Denver 17—Pete

Beathard returns as No. 1 quarterback in effort to keep Oilers in Eastern race.

Miami 21, Cincinnati 14—No one has been able to stop Bengals' Paul Robinson, but rest of attack isn't much.

NFL

Minnesota 21, Detroit 14—Anything can happen in the Central Division, but Minnesota defense should make it happen for Vikings this week.

Baltimore 27, St. Louis 14—Earl Morrall continues to make them forget Johnny Unitas.

Los Angeles 20, San Francisco 10—But how long can the Rams' defense carry the offense?

Dallas 35, Washington 14—Redskins win fashion honors for quarterbacks' rib protection vests; Dallas wins game.

New York 24, Philadelphia 14—Giants haven't come down after Dallas upset so Eagles won't even be able to reach them.

Chicago 21, Atlanta 7—Brian Piccolo won't give Bears same rhythm as Gale Sayers, but this week it shouldn't matter. Cleveland 24, Pittsburgh 14—Stop Dick Hoak and Roy Jefferson, and you stop the Steelers.

Green Bay 28, New Orleans 14—Fortunately for the Packers, the Saints aren't the Vikings or the Bears or the Lions.

Pirate Manager Shepard Says He Will Be Tough

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manager Larry Shepard, serving notice he is going to be tougher next season, said Friday he expects the Pittsburgh Pirates to hit with more authority and field with more finesse in 1969.

"My biggest mistake last year was expecting major leaguers to go out and play like major leaguers," he said. "It didn't always work out that way."

"I'm not going to make the same mistake again," he said. "We're going down to spring practice and work on fundamentals. When we're supposed to throw to the cutoff man, we're going to throw to him. That's the way you win the close ones."

Talking to reporters after watching the Pirates play in the winter instructional league in Florida, Shepard said he is looking forward to fielding a team that can hit the long ball.

"We had a lot of ping-pong hitters last year," Shepard said. "I like to see the line drive and we're going to get it."

He said the power would come from Bob Robertson, tagged to play first, Richie Hebner, a good bet at third, and possibly Al Oliver, who is trying to learn the outfield after a minor league career at first.

They would replace Donn Clendenon, Maury Wills and Manny Mota, lost in the expansion draft.

Other than those three, Shepard said the only other new faces next season would probably be catcher Manny Sanguillen and possibly Jim Shellenback as a left handed relief pitcher.

Sanguillen has turned into one of the hottest catching prospects in the league, Shepard said. Jerry May, the No. 1 catcher last year, will have a tough time keeping his job, Shepard said.

"But basically we'll be depending on our veterans," Shepard said. "If they can recover from their 1968 injuries and have a normal year we'll be in good shape."

He said he expected Roberto Clemente, who failed to hit .300 for the first time in eight years, to be completely over his shoulder injury. Gene Alley is trying to cure his arm injury by hanging from a chinning bar, and Bill Mazeroski is getting medical treatment for his hamstring pull.

Jim Bunning, who was supposed to lead the Pirates to the pennant last year, has dropped to the No. 5 spot in the rotation and Shepard said Bunning might have trouble making the team.

"That's to sound like the eternal optimist," said Shepard who finished sixth his rookie year in the majors. "But with a little luck, we'll be in there."

However, Joe L. Brown, the general manager, said the Pirates would be in the same division as St. Louis in the new divisional setup in the expanded league. He didn't say who the others will be but the Cards will be enough.

BIG DADDY HERE

James "Big Daddy" Batiste, standing 6-4 and in his third season with the Harlem Stars, will bring his 21.9 point per game average to Youngsville Tuesday to tussle with the Youngsville High faculty. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. The game will be at the high school gym.

Pitt Plays Army Today

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt, suffering through another dismal season, and Army, again hopeful of the first bowl appearance in its history, meet Saturday at Pitt Stadium.

The Cadets, a 22-point favorite, are expected to hand Pitt its eighth defeat and probably will boost the Panthers past another ignominious record — the most points they have ever allowed.

Pitt, 1-7, has yielded 302 points this season, 24 shy of the school mark of 326 it gave up in 1966. Army, 5-3, has been over 50 points twice and scored 24 against third-ranked Penn State two weeks ago, the most the Nittany Lions have allowed.

Army — whose three setbacks all came by four points, against Penn State, Missouri and Vanderbilt — has been mentioned as a possibility for the Gator Bowl if it beats Pitt and Navy and finishes 7-3.

DAUGHERTY PREDICTS

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY

USC GAME PLAN: O.J.

Head Football Coach
Michigan State University

Although preparations for football is an all-year proposition of mentally and physically conditioning your players, each coaching staff approaches each game in a slightly different manner. This is what is known as a game plan.

For example, if you happen to be playing a team with a highly explosive offense, one that rolls up good yardage in the air and along the ground, you must devise a ball control offense against such an opponent.

The idea here is to hang onto the ball as long as you possibly can. It is one sure way to minimize your rival's strong offense. If you have the ball, the other team can't score.

However, this plan is only effective if you are scoring while using up valuable time. Often, when you fail to score, you will be turning the ball over to your opponent.

This season we used the ball control plan against several opponents. But fumbles offset what would have been a very successful plan. We have had more long drives that culminated in fumbles than in any recent season.

For instance, against Michigan and its two explosive backs, Ron Johnson and Dennis Brown, our game plan worked. We had the ball for 90 plays against their 55 but repeated fumbles inside their 20-yard line proved costly.

When you're playing a team with a rugged defense against rushing and one using the same type of ball control tactics on offense as you are using, you must utilize the passing game more. The defensive plan against such a team is to use more stunting on defense in an effort to force them into mistakes.

You try to take away their big gainer on a first-down play. Doing that forces them into a second-down play with long yardage.

If you're playing a team that resorts to the long bomb, like Indiana, then your defensive strategy must vary in order to minimize the chances of a long touchdown pass. Never desert your game plan too soon.

Purdue had great ball control success in turning back Iowa and Illinois. In these two games, the Boilermakers passed a total of nine times.

They probably planned the same attack against Minnesota but three quick first-period touchdowns by the Gophers forced Purdue to play wide open football in the second half.

Purdue passed 25 times last Saturday. They cut into the 21-0 deficit but the lead was too much to overcome.

One of the best examples of sticking to a game plan and making it work is Johnny McKay of unbeaten Southern California. He has a lot of patience.

When it comes to controlling the ball, his game plan is simple. He just tells his quarterback to give the ball to Orange Juice Simpson 35 or 40 times a game.

And if O.J. is so much as takes a deep breath, McKay is flexible enough to have Steve Sogge toss a few of his pinpoint passes.

Georgia Wooded To Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl, admittedly in a pickle earlier this week, has snatched Georgia away from the Orange Bowl and will invite Missouri to play the Bulldogs here Jan. 1 if the Big Eight Conference Tigers beat Oklahoma Saturday.

Should the Sooners upset Missouri, then the Sugar Bowl will turn its attention to the Southwest Conference—going after either Arkansas or Texas, if the Longhorns don't get the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Georgia's Bulldogs, who play Auburn Saturday for the Southeastern Conference championship, have a no strings invitation to the New Year's Day post-season classic here.

This information comes from highly placed Sugar Bowl sources but, of course, will not be confirmed until noon next Monday when the official invitation tions and acceptances can be made.

NCAA regulations, called unrealistic by most postseason game officials, prohibit any bowl talk until the third Monday in November or the Monday before a team's final game—whichever comes sooner.

There is nothing in the rules, bowl people like to point out, to prevent a coach from talking about all the other postseason games and thus arrive at an understanding through process of elimination while abiding by the regulations.

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley's comment about his team's New Year's Day appearance here was: "We haven't had anything to do with any of the bowls except to speak to their scouts who have been watching our games."

Georgia's last appearance in the Sugar Bowl was in 1947, when Charlie Trippi led the Bulldogs to a 20-10 victory over Charlie Justice and North Carolina.

Sugar Bowl sources say that Missouri will be invited if it wins from Oklahoma, even though the Tigers have a big game next week with nationally ranked Kansas.

Auto Sports Club Plans Blind Rally

The Auto Sports Club of Warren is having a "Fall Frolic," best described as a seat-of-the-pants rally, on Sunday, starting from the First National Bank of Falconer, N.Y.

No speedometer, odometer, tachometer or rally equipment is permitted. Officials state that these instruments should be either removed or taped over.

Registration will start at 12 noon and the first car will begin the course at 1:01 p.m. Entry fee is $2.50 for non-members and $1.50 for members.

The rally course is approximately 100 miles in length, with one-quarter of the roads gravel and the other three-fourths paved. Food and drink will be available at the end of the course.

ON THE COVER

Home from the hospital a day or two earlier than expected or perhaps no hospital stay at all . . . that's the experience now possible for many residents of Warren and Forest counties. They are the beneficiaries of the relatively new Homemaker Service. The program was started in July and has been gaining momentum ever since. New home-health aides are being trained continuously. Here, Mrs. Jane Nordin, standing, left, program supervisor, gives some tips to trainee, Mrs. Susan Pfendler, standing, right, on how to care for the aged at the training session at Rouse Home. Mrs. Florence Everett, seated, plays the part of the patient. Dr. John Thompson, an attending physician at the home, also assists in the training program. Additional details about the program are in today's Allegheny.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a young student nurse who has gotten a real education in the past four weeks. Since I've been working in the hospital I've had my eyes opened up. Three children have died and a dozen more came close because their mothers were careless. Please print the following suggestions for the mothers of small children:

- (1) Keep all medicines locked up and out of reach.
- (2) When you have finished with a prescription, liquid or pill, get rid of it by flushing it down the toilet. Don't save medicine. It often changes chemically with age.
- (3) Never store cleaning agents in food containers, bottles or left-over jars. Last week one little boy nearly died from drinking cleaning fluid in a pop bottle. A little girl did die from eating insecticide which was in a jelly jar.
- (4) Do not leave children in the bathtub unattended. They can turn on the hot water and scald themselves.
- (5) Keep matches and cigaret lighters out of the reach of youngsters. Kids love fire and it can kill them.
- (6) Keep all pot handles turned toward the wall while on the stove. Youngsters are curious and often tip the pan to see what's cooking. Tipped pans have scarred many a child for life.

Thanks, Ann. — C.J.

Dear C. J.: I appreciate your suggestions and hope the mothers of young children will pay attention. And now I'd like to add one more suggestion. Children should be taught that if their clothes catch fire they should NOT run. They should fall to the ground or to the floor and roll until the flames are smothered.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been going with a very nice woman for four years. We are both past 30 and enjoy one another's companionship. This woman has a pretty face but she is very bowlegged. I took some pictures of her recently and her legs look like parentheses.

The problem is, the short skirts emphasize her bowlegs. I never thought much about her legs until these crazy styles came in.

Would I be out of line to tell her? — TIP OF MY TONGUE

Dear Tip: Speak up, Lad. It would be an act of friendship. She might ignore you but at least you will have gone on record.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman in our crowd went to Europe for seven weeks. She came back without a wrinkle in her face. She said she had a marvelous rest. We think she had her face lifted, but we can't see any scars.

A friend of mine whose aunt had her face lifted says the doctors are so skillful today that they lift from the hairline and behind the ears and the scars are invisible. Is this possible?

Do you think the woman would be offended if I came right out and asked her if she had a lift job? — JUST INQUISITIVE

Dear Just: It's true. . . plastic surgeons are extremely skillful, but I don't think your friend is eager to publicly praise her doctor. When the woman came back and announced she was "well-rested," that was her "explanation" for the absence of wrinkles. Let it alone.

to go are asked to notify one of the officers no later than today (Saturday). Workers may bring husband or guest. If the bus cannot be filled by today, however, the trip will be cancelled.

Co-workers willing to help with the dinner to be served for the District 2 meeting to be held in the lodge rooms at 2:30 p.m. are asked to contact Vera Petrewski.

Following the meeting, lunch was served by Catherine Sheldon's committee with Mrs. Maud Eckland in charge.

Attendance award was won by Ethel Johnson and special award by Gertrude Stites.

Every Member Visitation Sunday Observed by Lander Church

The Rev. Marvin of United Methodist Church of Lander has announced that "Every Member Visitation Sunday" will be observed tomorrow. An Information Dinner will be held immediately following the morning Worship Service at 12:30 p.m. It will be tureen style.

Following the dinner teams will be going forth in the community to receive commitments of members who do not attend the dinner but it is hoped that everyone will be present.

MRS. WOODBURN New York State Church Scene Of Damcott-Woodburn Nuptials

Mums, carnations and lighted candelabra decorated the altar of Clymer Hill Reform Church for the marriage of Miss June Damcott and James Woodburn at 8:30 p. m., November 1, 1968.

The Rev. Paul T. Hollier and the Rev. Russell Eszeld officiated at the double ring ceremony before more than 200 guests.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floorlength gown of chantilly lace and silk organza and taffeta with modified scoop neckline, long sleeves and sheath skirt. A sleeveless coat of organza formed a regal court train. Her veil of pure silk illusion was attached to a double crown of lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and crystal. She carried a bouquet of bronze mums and orange roses.

Mrs. Diane Einink was her sister's matron of honor with Misses Cynthia and Sandra Damcott, twin sisters, and Miss Anne Conlin, of Lockport, N.Y., serving as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in melon pique floorlength frocks with matching tulle bows and circular veils. They carried bouquets of bronze mums.

Little Robin Kinne, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a dress identical to the other attendants made by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Lynette Scheller. Daniel Dam-cott was ringbearer.

Bruce Manwaring was best man with Tom Messinger, Lynn Einink and Ronald Damcott as ushers.

Wedding music was provided by M. Carlyle Neckers, vocalist, and Mrs. Lloyd Einink, organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Swanson, uncle and aunt, were host and hostess at the reception which immediately followed the ceremony.

Assisting were Mrs. Carol Kinne, Mrs. Jeanette Evans, Mrs. Ruth Anne DeVore, Mrs. Kathy Hitchcock and the Misses Marcia Curtis, Betty Jo Curtis, Barbara Woodburn, Bonnie Damcott and Jane Winslow. Mrs. Jean Manwaring took charge of the guest book.

The bridegroom's mother hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Dutch Valley Restaurant.

The bride was graduated from Sherman Central and attended two years at Fredonia State University. The bridegroom was graduated from Panama Central and is a senior at Cortland College State University.

Following a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass., the new Mr. and Mrs. Woodburn will reside at 6 Monroe Heights, Cortland, N. Y.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. White, of Seal Rock, Oregon, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janice, to Sgt. Daniel Gertsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Tudor, Box 522, Chandelers Valley, Pa., who is stationed at Fort Carson, Colorado.

Miss White is employed by the State Forestry Department in Toledo, Oregon.

The couple plans a December 23 wedding.

John P. Wendell Guest Speaker

John P. Wendell was guest speaker for the weekly meeting of the Woman's Club Literature Department.

Mr. Wendell is a graduate of Princeton University, having earned his PhD, and is also a former member of the university's English department.

The speaker chose as his topic "Negative Utopia," and illustrated his talk by discussing the works of George Orwell.

Orwell, who was born in 1903 and died in 1949, had changed his name from Eric Blair. He was an unhappy school boy who received his education at Eton. He left for Burma but became disgusted with colonialism and returned to England.

He submerged himself in the world of the poor and wrote from first hand experiences. He fought in the Spanish Civil War and then wrote "Homage to Catalonia." His experiences left him with feelings that we were moving toward becoming numbers with loss of true feeling. He is considered a political writer.

Mr. Wendell discussed two of Orwell's best known works, "1984" and "Animal Farm."

Mrs. John Fanaritis, chairman of the Literature Department, was assisted by Mrs. Albert Loranger, hostess for tea, with Mrs. Julius Fino and Mrs. Glenn Werner presiding at the tea table.

Leftover turkey or chicken makes a marvelous rice casserole. Spread 1½ cups packaged precooked rice over bottom of 10x6x2-inch baking dish. Stir in 2 cans (8 ounces each) OR 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits, 1½ cups boiling water and salt and pepper to taste. Top with 6 cooked turkey or chicken slices. Bake, covered, at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Uncover; top with 6 slices process American cheese. Bake 5 minutes more. Makes 3 servings.

Art League's 1968 Show

Members of the Warren Art League are reminded to bring at least two of their paintings to the Center tomorrow between 2-5 and 7-9 p. m. in order to hang them in preparation for the 1968 Christmas Show.

It is planned to work tomorrow evening.

The show itself will be held November 21 through November 25 and will feature many exciting works.

Parental Help Is PTA Topic

"Parental support of teachers and school officials" was topic for discussion at the November 11 meeting of Pleasant PTA.

Principal Anthony Marino led the discussion and emphasized that positive parental support greatly reduces discipline problems at the school.

He touched on such problem areas as legality of excuses, bus discipline, safety at bus stops and parent-teacher relationships. He also commented on the success of the Pleasant football team in the last two years under leadership of Marshall Linman, Robert Peterson and John Walmsley.

The membership voted to purchase a flag pole for the school and President Karl Hoffman complimented the ways and means committee on their great success with the October ple social.

November 30 was the last day for the membership drive and it was noted no homeroom has, as yet, obtained full parental participation. All parents are urged to join and become active in the organization.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband hated to take a liquid medicine while he was sick in bed because I would usually spill it or drip some on the bed clothes or pajamas.

After looking around and trying to find a solution, I got the idea of using a little plastic bottle that his pills came in. Just measured the dose of medicine and put it into the bottle, then marked the outside of the bottle with adhesive tape.

Now I just pour the medicine in up to the tape and hand him the little bottle. Great—no more spills.

Sure has saved me lots of washing.

A Steady Reader

Look, mamas . . . This would be a tricky way to give those kiddies their medicine too! Thanks to our reader.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I washed empty cans from tuna fish and painted them. My husband bent one side in and down, making a level resting place for cigarettes.

Now when we're in the basement, there is no chance of knocking over glass ashtrays—we use these instead.

Mrs. Marie Grablovi

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

Dear Folks:

I eat lots of canned soup. Sometimes I vary it by mixing two different kinds together.

Last night I added a teaspoon of steak sauce to some soup and it was a whing-dilly. You might try it in a half can first, but I know you will love it like I did.

Also delicious in canned soup is tomato catsup and a squirt or two of Tabasco. It really gives the soup a lift.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

A girl friend told me when making pies for the freezer to use my electric mixer to blend the flour and shortening. It doesn't spatter one bit and only takes a half minute.

Mixing four cups of flour by hand, I have lumps and flour all over my tummy and the cabinet.

But the mixer works great.

Colleen

DEAR HELOISE:

In each bathroom, we have three plastic, squeeze bottles which are clearly marked.

"Mouthwash," "Bath Oil," and "Vinegar."

No danger of broken glass or wasted money on spilled bottles.

Win Them Class Met This Week

RUSSELL — The Win Them Class of Methodist United Church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lee Yaegle with Mrs. Larry Werner as co-hostess.

Mrs. Carl Anderegg presided with Mrs. Sherman Burdick giving devotions with "Fruits from the Bible" and reading verses in which they were named. She also presented a poem by Edgar Guest, "Good World" and two by Robert Louis Stevenson, "Prayer of the Morning" and "Prayer of the Evening."

Twenty-three members

answered roll call.

Members were reminded to bring gifts for the Meadville Home for the Aged to the next meeting to be held December 3 in the educational building at the church. There will be a 6:30 p. m. tureen supper followed by a Christmas party.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wood and Mrs. Burdick will be hostesses and there will be a 50 cent to $1 gift exchange.

Mrs. Yaegle and Mrs. Werner were in charge of the program and presented a comedy style show. Those taking part were Mary Lou Anderegg, commentator; Mrs. Edward Branstrom, Mrs. Charles Swanson, Mrs. John Nelson, Mrs. Ray Briggs, Mrs. Willis Phillips, Mrs. William Burd and the hostesses.

Refreshments were served to conclude the evening.

Open House Is Great Success

Open House at Pittsfield Elementary School has been termed a great success.

Lois Lillie, school principal, with teachers, was on hand to greet the parents and displays were shown in all the classrooms.

The PTA meeting was brought to order by Mrs. Ray Wiant, co-president, who reported there would not be another meeting of the group until the Founders Day session in February.

Mrs. Betty Wiant introduced the speaker, Dr. Ronald Usiak of the Warren State Hospital staff, who spoke on mental health aspects of childhood. Dr. Usiak stressed how important it is to discipline children in early years. A question and answer period followed.

Finance chairman, Miss Beverly Tripp, reminded members to contribute to the Christmas bazaar to be held next month.

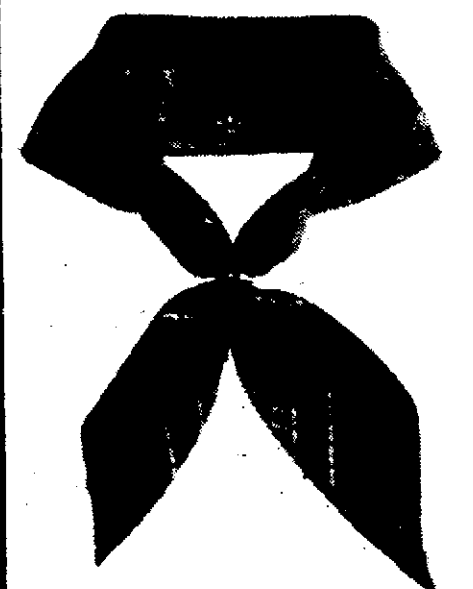

Winnie Bugbee, hospitality chairman, reported the students enjoyed the Halloween party when donuts and orange drink were served.

Mrs. Morris' class won the room award and refreshments were served by Pittsfield mothers.

Homemakers Service Helps Family in Need

By NOEL DODD

Case History of a family in dire need of help: A mother of six sustains injuries in an auto accident and is hospitalized for an indefinite period. The distraught father is faced with missing work because there's no one to take care of his children. With no relatives to turn to, what does this man do?

He contacts the Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council office and discovers that under the relatively new Homemakers Service at least one of his major problems can be solved.

Into this home goes a fully-trained homemakers aide. She tends to the children, does light housekeeping, does the shopping, runs errands, and by doing so keeps this family together at a time when it appeared the only alternative was to temporarily dissolve the family unit.

The circumstances may vary in each particular case, but the need for help remains.

For instance, these aides are trained to assist the ill or handicapped. In many instances, they have made it possible for early release from the hospital or prevented the need for hospitalization all together.

The groundwork for this program, which is sponsored by the Warren County Commissioners, was started about a year ago when 12 student home-health aides began training under the supervision of Mrs. Jane Nordin, director of the service.

These pioneers of the program went into the field last winter and proved that the need for such a service exists.

Last summer the agency was officially established to provide homemaker service in Warren and Forest counties. It's supported by county and state funds, and sponsored by the county commissioners. A portion of the cost is defrayed through private donations.

Since its inception on July 1, 1968, the new service has trained another class and in the past three months the aides have spent more than 1,000 hours in the homes of those requiring assistance. More than 80 per cent of these hours have involved assistance to the elderly.

The homemaking aides cannot provide medication, but are limited to performing tasks which will assist the ill and the handicapped. They are trained to serve those who are recuperating from a variety of illnesses, as well as the victims of stroke and permanent or chronic maladies.

Not only does this service help to keep families together and provide the aged with a degree of security while recuperating at home, but it also means savings to the community.

"If a homemaking service can be expanded to the extent that sufficient aides are available to meet the demand, capital investment in space and beds for the Warren General Hospital, Warren State Hospital, and the Rouse Home could be noticeably reduced."

Aides frequently perform their duties at the request of doctors and always under the supervision of a nurse if the client is ill. In some cases they are employed by elderly people who need a bit of help each day or a few days each week.

Their director, Mrs. Nordin, is a registered nurse and studies every case before an aide is assigned. She trains, supervises, assigns, keeps local and state reports.

At present she is instructing a Forest County class in Marienville.

Though originally sponsored by the Warren and Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council, Inc., the service hopes to become locally operated. This is being attempted now by the sponsoring county commissioners and if the program proves successful it may be approved for Medicare payments.

Many served are able to pay the fee required to cover basic expenses of the non-profit program. Some pay only part of the price.

The need, some observers say, is for the service to become a recognized local

TRAINEES ARRIVE

The six members of the Warren-Forest Counties Homemaker Service training class arrive for duty at Rouse Home where they spent three days learning the techniques of the care of the elderly. All from Marienville, they are: Mrs. Benkovich, Mrs. Evelyn Payne, Mrs. Pfendler, Mrs. Velma McCann, Mrs. Josephine Barron, and Mrs. Alice Schrecongost.

DISCUSS PROGRAM

Kenneth Greenlund, Rouse Home administrator, and Mrs. Eileen Jewell, director of nursing service, discuss ways to assist the class of Homemaker Service trainees during their three-day care of the elderly course at the home. The women spend three weeks in training before being assigned to a specific home.

In The New Pennsylvania The Lights Are All Green

Everything's go in the New Pennsylvania! There's no stopping us now—we've got more jobs than we've ever had. Just pick your career then build it right here.

Schools? Better than they've ever been, and we're building more for you and your children.

Yes, things are happening in Pennsylvania. Our highways hum with activity—our cities and towns buzz with excitement. Our people laugh louder and play harder. It's great to be part of it!

You're where the action is—where the opportunity is—where the future is! Grab the challenge and run toward the good life—in the vigorous, pulsating New Pennsylvania.

CARE FOR THE ELDERLY

This 94-year-old lady, Cordelin Christiana, a guest at the Rouse Home, permits Mrs. Susan Pfendler of Marienville, left, a trainee in the Warren and Forest Counties Homemaker Service, to gain some valuable experience in personal care for the elderly. Assisting is Mrs. Kathryn Bailey, an aide at the home.

One of a series sponsored by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association and presented as a public service as part of this newspaper's participation in the program of "100,000 Pennsylvanians" for the Promotion of Economic Growth, a non-partisan, privately financed citizens' group.

PATIENT CARE

Mrs. Jennie Benkovich, Marienville, left, a member of the Homemaker Service class which just finished a three-day training course at Rouse Home, learns the proper technique of getting a disabled patient in and out of a wheel chair.

PREPARING FOR PATIENT

Mrs. Schrecongost cleans a unit in preparing for patient during training session for Homemaker Service class at Rouse Home.

agency, either as part of an already existing agency, or as a new operation.

This first year's projected budget has been set at $45,710. Of this amount, officials estimate $30,710 will be realized through payments. The remaining $15,000 will be equally divided between the state and county. However, after the expected contributions have been counted, it's anticipated the county will only be responsible for about $2,500 of the entire expenditure.

Anyone wishing to contribute may send a check to Homemaker Service for Warren and Forest Counties, Box 702, Warren, Pa.

Meat for the Table

In the large super-markets of today the butcher is a man who works behind closed doors. No longer can the housewife haggle with him over the cuts of meat, or accuse him of weighing his hand along with the meat on the scales. Instead, she walks slowly past a long counter filled with packages of meat and fowl of every description all neatly wrapped in cellophane.

The name of the meat, its exact weight in pounds and ounces, and total price for the package appear on printed labels. Here, at this lonely counter the housewife has to make her choice without consulting the butcher. There is no one behind the counter, unless the butcher's helper happens to be replenishing the stock at the moment. If the shopper wishes to discuss a special cut of meat with the butcher himself, she must ring a bell to summon him.

When I traded in a little "cow town" in Arizona back in the early thirties the butcher shop was run by the very man who did the slaughtering of the cattle that ended up in his little shop. All that he sold was beef, and he had only one price per pound for it regardless of the part of the animal you bought. Ground beef was 25 cents per pound, but so was T-bone steak. If you got to the shop early enough he would hack off some T-bones for you. If you arrived too late in the day you might have to settle for ground beef or a stringy roast. The butcher always wore a blood-splattered apron which repelled me. I had watched thick-skinned cow punchers slaughter range cattle and I knew their methods. Somehow, I felt guilty of cruelty to animals—if only by association—by merely patronizing this shop. I even began toying with the thought of becoming a vegetarian.

In a huge indoor market in Zaragoza, Spain—where everything edible, and some things not so edible-looking were sold—I found the butcher stalls most interesting. Here no part of the slaughtered animal is wasted. All of its component parts are on display. It takes a while to get accustomed to the sight of a calf's head staring mournfully at you from a meat hook. Or an animal's entrails draped like a lei from another hook. But worst of all is the overpowering stench that emanates from the meat stalls, for the meat is not refrigerated.

In the open-air markets of Mexico, I have seen meat covered with swarms of flies. And as in Spain the carcasses had never been refrigerated. A blind man could have found his way to the meat stalls just by following his nose.

In France there are three kinds of meat shops. If you see one with a picture of a pig out in front this is the place to head for if you want pork products. But if you want a nice horse roast for the Sunday dinner, you look for a shop with horse heads pictured on it. I saw one shop that had a sculptured horse head, covered with gold leaf, jutting out from overhead on each end of the front of the shop. If you fancy beef steak for dinner you make your way to a shop that sells beef. It might take a bit of running around to fill the week's meat order, and none of the meat will be wrapped in cellophane, but if you can't read French you can still find the right shop without difficulty.

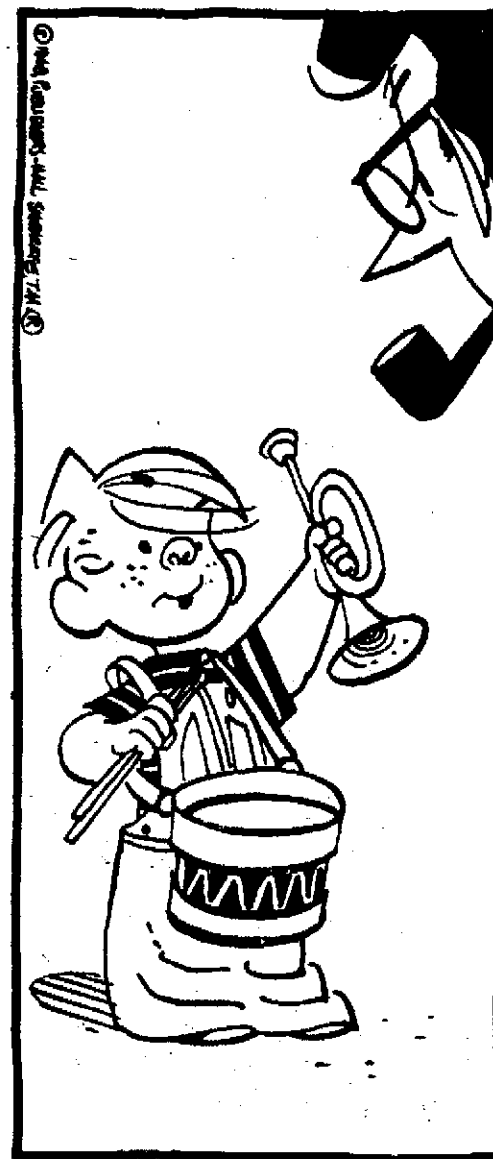

Stotz

At Saint Lo, in Normandy, the open-air market is fascinating. Huge, live, warty-looking crabs shuffle around in punch-drunk fashion on top of improvised tables. Fish of every description, fresh from the English Channel, gaze at you with lack-luster eyes. Live chickens and ducks, with legs tied together, are sold like so many bunches of fresh vegetables. Many of them end up being stuffed in among the vegetables in baskets which all the shoppers carry on market day. If anything is wrapped, it is wrapped in old newspapers. The pavement around the stalls is littered with furry rabbit feet, and other inedibles of the market place.

Dear to the heart of every true Frenchman are snails—a national dish. In Southern France I saw a restaurant that was so devoted to this little mollusk that huge snails were etched in the glass that covered the front of the establishment. Snails were evidently a permanent specialty of the house.

Man somewhere in the world will eat almost anything that creeps, crawls, runs, flies, or swims. It might be snails, spiders, grasshoppers, ants, squid, eels, cattle, sheep, horses, goats, lizards, camels, whales, crows, and oysters. What is meat for the table in one culture might be scorned by another as being unfit for food.

"WHICH WOULD YOU RATHER..."

"I NEVER SHOULD'VE ASKED."

Local Physician Urges Pap Test

Uterine cancer, which ranks third among cancer killers of American women, could almost be eliminated by widespread use of a simple inexpensive examination, according to Dr. Ross Bryan, M.D. Dr. Bryan is vice president of the Warren County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

There will be 2,600 new cases of uterine cancer in Pennsylvania this year. Many of these patients will die and this is part of the total picture of potentially avoidable deaths among women each year from uterine cancer throughout the United States.

Chiefly developed by the late Dr. George Papanicolaou, the examination, known as the Pap test, can find uterine cancer, most commonly cancer of the cervix, at its earliest most curable stage.

The test involves the microscopic examination of cells shed from the uterus and can be made in a doctor's office or a clinic, where a sample is taken and later observed under a microscope.

If the test reveals suspicious cells, the next step is a procedure known as a biopsy. It is the only certain method of diagnosing cancer.

"If every adult woman would act accordingly, death from this type of cancer could almost be eliminated. Fortunately, in some very early cases, a cure can be obtained without impairing a woman's ability to have children.

"Why don't some women have Pap tests? People have a way of procrastinating. They put off having a test; something interferes; they forget it—and the first thing you know—another year has passed. The woman that avoids having the test is risking serious illness and possible death."

In conclusion, Dr. Bryan suggests that adult women let their birthday serve as a reminder to get an annual checkup, including the Pap test. "Every year—like it or not—we have a birthday. And every year, all adult women should have a Pap test."

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—It will be important to get a brisk start on your program, but even more important to keep up the good effort. A New Twist to some old matters indicated. Be progressive but not over-aggressive.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Fine Venus influences. Put out feelers to gain new perspective, fresh viewpoints. Creative pursuits highly favored; also romance.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mild Mercury influences. Plan and execute a decisive program, devoid of all clutter. Pay special attention to details and figures. Use ALL your fine talents.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—With sound purpose and aim you can accomplish a great deal now. Stimulate the best in yourself and others and make the best use of fine aspects.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Mixed influences. Recheck as to where you are headed, and why. Neither make agreements too quickly nor dally until you lose chances.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—This may not be a working day for you, but plenty of other obligations wait. Take things in your usual intelligent way, and look hard for the hidden benefits.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Look below the surface for more leads which will help you solve problems, get ahead faster in your occupation. Venus favors creative pursuits; also home and family concerns.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Any predicament can be handled with your acumen and far-sightedness now. Display your mettle. SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Not everything will please you, but the real go-getter is always searching for a better way—and results. Just do not overlook the benefits that ARE about.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Especially favored now: Teachers, students, home-makers. In all conferences, negotiations, discuss matters quietly, dispassionately. Curb emotions.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—You may have to make certain important decisions now. Show your perceptiveness. Weigh all pros and cons carefully, and let your good judgment decide.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—A fine day for achievement. You will gain in proportion to your enthusiasm. But DO keep first things first and don't mix duties and pleasure injudiciously.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with remarkable intuition, insight and a subtle sense of humor. Although undemonstrative most of the time, you are, nevertheless devoted to family and friends, and are a great lover of tradition. You are extremely sensitive and, while usually tenacious in pursuing your goals, can lose interest in a project if you feel that you are not winning the approval of others involved. Learn to curb this trait. Most times your fears are groundless since, when you are doing your best, no one can do better and others actually envy your competence. Birthdate of: Alaleona Domenico, Ital, composer.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

+ COLD HANDS AND FEET

A 25-year-old woman writes: "Many people share my problem—cold hands and feet. I have tried everything suggested, including two pairs of woolen mittens and socks, galoshes, insulated boots, and plastic liners worn close to the skin. I am not interested in using chemical and battery-operated gadgets. Can you help?"

Our reader has handled her condition well, with one exception—no attempt was made to find out why her hands and feet are cold. In young adults, coldness usually stems from constriction of the smaller arterioles of the skin. Most sufferers, but not all, are females.

The sympathetic nervous system regulates the size of the blood vessels. We have no control over these nerves, which also affect pulse rate, sweat glands, gooseflesh, digestion, and other functions. In individuals with cold limbs, this system is overly active and sensitive.

The sympathetic nervous system connects with the central nervous system and is influenced to a certain degree by stress-producing emotions such as anxiety, anger, and frustration. The skin also may be moist and slightly bluish. Warmth lessens, but does not abolish, the coldness and skin color. Exposure to severe weather and emotional upheavals intensify sympathetic irritability.

When the cause is on an emotional basis, it may be difficult to correct unless the person calms down. Tranquilizers may help. Drugs to relax the arterioles are useful, although the slight warming that takes place may not warrant ensuing side reactions. This woman should learn to live with her problem, because it tends to improve with age and sophistication. Hardening of the arteries is causative in oldsters with this manifestation.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

+ SMOKING AND DIARRHEA

A reader writes: Does smoking aggravate chronic diarrhea?

REPLY

Tobacco increases the motility of the intestine and may aggravate an existing diarrhea, especially when it is caused by nervousness. Much more important is the question: What is causing the symptom? Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on diarrhea.

GRIN AND BEAR IT BY LIGHTY

"What really scares a man is how few non-shopping days there are between now and Christmas!"

Conversational Counselling And Compost

By Bernie Wingert, County Agent

It's almost time for Farm-City Week again. Officially the days from November 22nd through the 28th have been set aside in the State as days to celebrate the interdependence of farm and city people. It's to help foster better rural and urban relationships.

This business of understanding or misunderstanding has been going on for a long time. I was reading the other day about conditions in 1874 — "The farmer was in distress. Rightly or wrongly, he laid his distress to various causes — the growth of monopolies and trusts, the burden of taxation, the injustice of tariff protection for factory products, the disproportionately low return for his investment and labor, the competition of the great agricultural regions of the West." Doesn't sound much different from today's cry and hue, does it?

During the recent presidential campaign Mr. Humphrey said, "The one way to meet the urban crises is to modernize rural America. That means good roads, airports, schools, hospitals, small industries, jobs, decent farm income, farm cooperatives, cultural institutions. In other words, rural America has to have everything that the best city in America has, including fresh air, including green spaces Unless we do this, there will be no answer to the urban crisis." Well, Mr. Humphrey had a lot more to say too, but I don't have enough space to keep on going. This sounds to me like a good idea, but I don't know how it can be done.

Each year about 200,000 rural young people leave their home communities when they reach working age. They're off to the big town to make their fortune or hopefully at least a living. Sadly enough many don't do as well as they expected, and end up on the welfare roll.

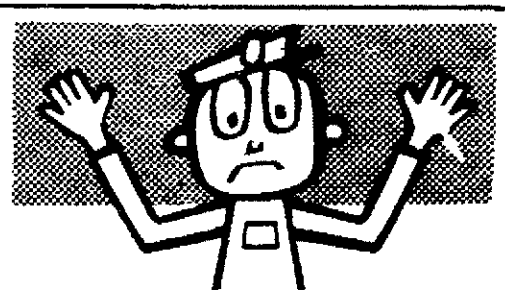

In 1920 the farm population was about 32 million, or 30 per cent of the nation's 106 million people. In 1940, farm population of 30½ million hadn't changed much, but the U.S. population had reached 132 million. Today there are 11 million persons on farms, less than 6 per cent of our 210,000,000 total population!

And we're still the best fed country in the world. We are one of the few counties where technology is being applied in agriculture at a faster rate than we're able to consume or develop new markets. Yet, two thirds of the world's people, go to bed hungry.

Here we are bumbling along seemingly unable to solve the problems of our big cities, nor our depressed rural areas, and the troubles of the farmer still sound very much the same as they did in 1874.

I wonder if we shouldn't declare every week Farm-City Week and start finding solutions to some of these problems. Up to now everyone has been spending full time on the question and none on the answer. Could it be that the almost unlimited distribution of Federal and State aid make the rich communities richer and the poor communities poorer?

JIM BISHOP

A Bishop Longer

In Cleveland, I broke bread with Bishop Clarence Issenmann, who was presiding at a dinner for 250 Holy Name Societies, and the topic swung to an intriguing question: "Why is it that the assassination of John F. Kennedy brings out venom in all who discuss it?" Everyone, it seems, has an ironclad theory, and friendships have been broken on disagreements about what happened on that solemn sunny day in Dallas.

The bishop occupies a special place in the Catholic hierarchy. He is the only one of the 240 in high episcopal office who was a newspaper reporter. Bishop Issenmann worked for the Denver Register. It is natural that the American bishops selected him to be their "press agent."

I could not respond to his question about the assassination and rigid opinions. Like the war in Vietnam, it is not a subject for rational discussion. Hackles and voices rise. So do blood pressures.

It is five years since the event. The book I wrote on the subject, "The Day Kennedy Was Shot," will be published next week by Funk & Wagnalls, but I am already inundated with stories by the Associated Press, United Press International, the New York Times, each one of whom has dissected the book and my mind, and none of whom bothered to phone and ask me how I feel about everything.

A month ago, Newsweek Magazine devoted two long columns to the book, even though they did not have the book. It was reading a magazine condensation in Ladies Home Journal. Newsweek said that William Manchester's book was "the Kennedy version"; Jim Bishop, who had the only interview LBJ ever granted on the assassination, has written "The LBJ Brand."

Bunk. That book cost 3,500 hours of research, of which 43 minutes was spent with President Johnson. It required no more time to find out how he felt that day when they pinned him in a curtained emergency room while his chief was dying down the hall. If that makes my book the Lyndon Johnson version, I'll eat it and it runs to more than 700 pages.

Worse, some of the publications are given the book for review to competitors — there is a rumor in town that the Times asked Manchester to dissect my work. That's like asking Richard Nixon to write a report card on Hubert Humphrey's performance.

The book is still a weekaway from publication, and already some literary friends will not touch me with a long pole. One book publisher is angry because he had the book, and lost it because I felt he lacked enthusiasm about another book he had published. I have spent days at the house phone, submitting to interviews by radio stars who ask questions without having seen the book.

If the book is remarkable at all, it is because it is the first one that did not rush into print to capitalize on the morbid attitude of the American people. It is the only one that reconstructs everything that President Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald did on one day, minute by minute, over a span of 250,000 words.

Intelligent editors thought that I should have indicted the city of Dallas "for its climate." Others wondered why I did not play Jack Ruby bigger in the story. Answer: Because he and Oswald had never met, and because Ruby was in the advertising department of the Dallas News when Kennedy was shot in Dealey Plaza.

Dinner groups asked me to address them — not about the book — but about why the Kennedys did not want me to write the book in the first place. The project became exasperating because I became aware that no one wanted to understand what had happened on Nov. 22, 1963 — they looked for a fresh sensation. I tried to explain that if I could only subscribe to District Attorney Jim Garrison's wild notions, my book would be a runaway best-seller.

The phone clicked off and I heard dial tones. Was anyone interested in the fact that it took two years to read and annotate the 26 volumes of the Warren Commission Report? Not one. Two solid years? No, sir. My own daughters murmured: "Do tell!" and went back to letting hems down.

I had never met Bishop Clarence Issenmann before, and, as newspapermen, we could not agree on why everyone becomes so angry at the mention of the assassination. I gave him the first copy of the first edition of the book, and he said: "Thank you" and began to leaf through it.

"Why do you say this?" he said, pointing at a page. I groaned. "Oh no," I said. "Listen," I said, "I hate to pull rank, but I've been a bishop longer than you — so close the book." . . .

RICHARD R. HARATINE

Sunday Liquor Sales

HARRISBURG -- Neither controls on the price of milk nor a threatened breakdown in the minor judicial processes of Pennsylvania consumed as much energy, newspaper space, or prime television time here this week as the proposal for putting Sunday Liquor sales up to local options.

On the theory that it is good for the tourist and convention business, the hotels in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh already have the Sunday whiskey privilege, along with private clubs anywhere in the state.

The proposal now before the Legislature would extend the privilege of Sunday Whiskey sales to any bar provided that there is a favorable local referendum at next spring's primary — and provided that the bar owner gets 55 per cent of his receipts from the sale of food.

Naturally, some church people could be expected to raise a fuss over this idea. Some did. They were here under the flag of the Rev. Rayford G. Feather who lobbies for the Pennsylvania Temperance League.

Striving to prove that Gov. George Earle was right when he said there "is more hell in a bottle of milk in Pennsylvania than in a bottle of whiskey," the Rev. Mr. Feather abandoned traditional fire and brimstone. His strategy was more in keeping with the political mechanics around here. The opposition of the Temperance group, therefore, was based on the idea of putting the referendum on a municipal basis, rather than county-wide.

The Rev. Mr. Feather had, presumably, been taking lessons in legislative maneuver from Rep. Percy G. Foor, a Republican from Bedford County, where 22 out of 39 municipalities are dry and where Sundays are mostly reserved for quiet walks along the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River.

Rep. Foor spent his time this week trying to get the food-to-liquor ratio lowered to 33 1/3 percent, on the theory that Gov. Raymond Shafer would veto anything less than 55 percent.

Across the state the hotel and tavern industry is engaged in a determined effort to unshackle the Sunday Sales ban. A lot of business, they say, is slipping across the state lines on Sundays that might just as well stay at home, and the slippage, they insist, amounts to more than $5 million annually in tax revenues alone.

Shot by shot, the proponents of Sunday sales have been slugging away at the existing law. Only once in modern history has there been a general sale of liquor on Sunday — last December 31, New Year's Eve. This was under the new law which permits Sunday sales when that date falls on Sunday, or once every seven years.

Aside from clubs and the big city hotels, the only public place to get a drink on Sundays is in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia ball parks, and the clientele there has to settle for beer.

REV. JOHN T. CARTER

Thanksgiving Prayer

By Rev. John Carter, Clarendon.

Are there many things that we can thank God for each day? Let us try and see.

Thank you, Lord, for the house to live in, for there are many who are homeless.

Thank you, Lord, for the kind and loving wife, for there are many who are separated.

Thank you, Lord, for the fine children for there are many who are childless.

Thank you, Lord, for the three meals a day for there are many who live in hunger.

Thank you, Lord, for the good health I have, for there are many who are sick and crippled.

Thank you, Lord, for the clothes to wear for there are many who are cold and naked.

Thank you, Lord, for my mother and father, for there are many who are orphans.

Thank you, Lord, for my education, for there are many who cannot read.

Thank you, Lord, for making me an American, for there are many who are enslaved.

Thank you, Lord, for making me a Christian, for there are many who don't know you.

Thank you, Lord, for dying for me, that I might be saved.

Thank you, Lord, for letting me share in your glorified life, for you made me someone special.

Why have you blessed me so, Lord? You must expect a great deal from me. How shall I repay you? There is only one way: By giving it all back to you. Jesus, For Thee I Live. Jesus, For Thee I Die. Jesus, Let me be Thine in Life, 2nd in death.

WE'LL HAVE TO WAIT—GENERAL THIEU IS GOING TO HOLD HIS BREATH UNTIL WE LISTEN TO REASON . . .

ART BUCHWALD

Getting Saigon To Paris

WASHINGTON -- After five years of doing practically everything, the United States finally got Hanoi to come to the conference table. But the only trouble is that, although Hanoi has agreed to come to the conference table, Saigon is refusing to come. This leaves the United States in one bad spot, because it's always harder to deal with your friends than it is with your enemies.

The problem that everyone is working on now is, how do you get President Thieu to send someone to Paris?

My friend at the State Department has been working on this tricky problem for three weeks.

"There's a division of opinion on how to deal with South Vietnam," he said. "The Hawks want to bomb Saigon."

"What on earth for?" I asked.

"To save face for the South Vietnamese. If we bomb Saigon, then they can say they won't go to Paris until we stop the bombing. That's how we got the North Vietnamese to agree to talk, so there is no reason why it wouldn't work for the south."

"It makes sense. What's wrong with it?"

"The Doves say if you bomb Saigon it will just strengthen the South Vietnamese determination to keep fighting the war. They maintain we've been bombing parts of South Vietnam for years now and it hasn't intimidated President Thieu or Vice President Ky. It's just made Saigon's position tougher."

"What does the Air Force say about that?"

"They say we've been bombing the wrong targets in South Vietnam. If they could bomb the port at Camranh Bay and the city of Hue, then they're sure Thieu would see the light. But since they've only been permitted to bomb selected targets below the DMZ and on the Ho Chi Minh Trail, there is no reason for Thieu and Ky to talk peace."

"Then the American military are insisting on all-out victory in South Vietnam?" I asked.

"They say we shouldn't have gone into South Vietnam unless we wanted to win."

"Is there any other way of getting the South Vietnamese to come to the conference table?"

"We were considering closing up all the U.S. Army PXs in South Vietnam, but that is a very drastic step and could turn world opinion against us. Without the black market, South Vietnam would not be able to survive."

"It's probably against the Geneva Convention," I said. "Are there any alternative suggestions?"

"We could threaten to de-escalate the war, but that has its drawbacks. If we de-escalated the war, then we'd be dealing with Hanoi from a position of weakness."

"It looks as if you're not in very good shape."

"I guess our mistake was assuring South Vietnam they could win the war. Now they believe it."

"Couldn't you ask Ho Chi Minh to intervene and use his good offices on our behalf?"

"We have, but he says it's not his problem. We got ourselves into the mess; he claims we have to get out of it."

"A lot of people are wondering why we agreed to the bombing halt when we weren't sure Saigon would come to the peace table."

"It was a calculated risk. We assumed that once Hanoi agreed to peace talks, the Thieu government would agree also. Now it looks as if Hanoi knew Saigon wouldn't, and that's why they did. It shows you what dirty negotiators the North Vietnamese really are."

Distillers Produce Movies

WASHINGTON--The American public doesn't know it, but the motion pictures it sees are now being produced largely by whiskey distillers, big defense contractors or giant holding corporations. And more of these big mergers are on the way.

Right now, pending before the Justice Department is the proposed Westinghouse acquisition of Universal Pictures which has already combined with Decca Records and the Music Corporation of America, world's biggest agency booking actors, musicians and other talent.

Also in the offing is the purchase of Twentieth Century-Fox, one of the Big Five picture companies, by the Aluminum Corporation of America, the world's largest aluminum producer.

The Glen Alden Corporation which owns Schenley, second biggest liquor company, also owns RKO-Stanley Warner Theatres, a deal put together by David Baird, recently under investigation by the SEC. The American Aviation Company, another defense contractor, owns Embassy, producers of the hit movie, "Lion in Winter," starring Katherine Hepburn.

Transamerica, another big holding company, owns United Artists and is dickering to acquire Metromedia, which owns an important chain of radio and television stations, together with an outdoor advertising company.

The most interesting combines, however, are the domination of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, one of the world's largest motion picture companies, by executives of Seagram, the world's largest whiskey distiller; also the proposed merger of Warner Brothers with National General Theatres.

Both deals appear to be viewed complacently by the Justice Department, though they would have caused vigorous crackdowns in the days when Thurman Arnold was making the Antitrust Law more than a mere scrap of paper. The mergers may present an interesting problem to the Nixon administration, unless Justice Department officials under Johnson bless them first. In this case the public should watch to see whether certain justice officials go to work for the companies later.

Maneuvers by the whiskey cabal to get control of MGM were hot last week as Edgar Bronfman, president of Seagram, tried to grease the exit of Robert O'Brien, as head of MGM. O'Brien is a former Roosevelt New Dealer who served on the Securities and Exchange Commission. Bronfman is son of the old bootlegging family which made a killing shipping Canadian whiskey to the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off the Canadian coast from whence it was bootlegged into the United States in the old prohibition days. The U.S. Treasury Department once collected $1,500,000 from Seagram for non-payment of taxes on bootlegged whiskey.

Working with his brother-in-law, John L. Loeb Jr., and Bernard H. Auer of Time magazine, Bronfman proposed Lewis Polk, formerly of General Mills, as new president of the giant movie concern. To get acquainted with Polk, Bronfman invited fellow directors to his home the night before the directors' meeting. Polk, however, failed to show. Next morning he said he had another engagement. The directors next day postponed a decision when chairman George Killian said he had learned Polk was immature and undependable.

Polk is the second man Bronfman has proposed as head of MGM, the first being his pal, Jerry Goldsmith. Goldsmith would appear even less qualified to be a movie executive. He is an expert shooting in Spain with Bronfman, enjoying Paris night life, building a toll bridge to Paradise Island's new gambling casino, and establishing gambling casinos all over the Caribbean.

Meanwhile, Warner Brothers has an interesting deal cooking -- if the Justice Department does not put its foot down. Warner has already merged with Seven Arts, and is now the subject of a second merger with the National General Corporation, which owns the former Fox West Coast Theatres.

Should the Justice Department OK this merger, all the work of trust-busting Thurman Arnold would go up in smoke. It was he who forced motion picture producers to sell their theatres on the sound ground that a guaranteed outlet for films depreciated their quality. Experience has shown this to be true. Nevertheless, Warner-Seven Arts now wants to combine with National General and its theatre chain.

Behind this deal are the First National Bank of Boston, together with Charles Allen of Allen and Company, Eugene Klein and Bert Kleiner of Los Angeles, plus, secretly, Edgar Bronfman and William Forman.

Allen is the owner of "The Pill," subject of much birth control controversy, and is the third richest man in the world. Forman, an ex-convict, is a big owner of Cinerama. Bert Kleiner and Eugene Klein are West Coast investors in the Fund of Funds in Switzerland, also generous contributors to Hubert Humphrey's campaign.

WILLIAM BUCKLEY

Nixon's Cabinet

There is much speculation about the composition of Mr. Nixon's Cabinet; indeed my brothers Messrs. Novak and Evans, after telling us over the years that Nixon could never win the presidency, have now just about completed the staffing of Nixon's Administration. If we take their word for it, and that of others who are engaged in similar forecasting, Mr. Nixon's Cabinet will look like a roster of eligibles drawn up by the Ripon Society.

It is, by the way, interesting that so many of the season's orators who were proclaiming that Senator Strom Thurmond would exercise a veto power over any appointment by Mr. Nixon, think nothing at all now of predicting very liberal appointments. But of course that was campaign oratory, and we have known it ever since Mr. Wendell Willkie told us, that we are not to take seriously the vaticinations of hungry politicians. Even so, it is unquestionably in Mr. Nixon's mind to nominate a "balanced" team; i. e., to include in it recognized leaders of Republicans, both left and right. He may even nominate a Democrat or two, even as old FDR used to do, the better to eat us up with. A few words are appropriate concerning some of the names one hears mentioned, Nelson Rockefeller. More than any man in America, he is anathema to the right wing. It is in part a chemical reaction. Because Mr. Rockefeller has flogged the right wing mercilessly. In the summer of 1963 he formally charged that the Republican party was being taken over by extremists, and the average Republican suddenly discovered that the man Rockefeller was describing, was himself. And then there was Mr. Rockefeller's desertion of his party during the Goldwater campaign.

In fact, apart from Mr. Rockefeller's addiction to domestic liberal cliches, the Governor is a very capable man, and in foreign policy, a very realistic man. Late this spring he managed, under the inept tutelage of Emmet Hughes, to say some complicated and demoralizing things concerning Vietnam. But even that tergiversation does not obscure a firm anti-Communist commitment that dates back to his role in the Chapultepec Conference in the early 40's, where he first incurred the animosity of the world Communist enterprise.

He is, moreover, an expert administrator. And he profoundly believes in the necessity of national strength. He would be the last man in America to be fooled by phony disarmament drives, or taken in by the sentimental pretensions of non-proliferation treaties. In other words, Nelson Rockefeller would make a good Secretary of Defense, and a very shrewd choice for that position since Rockefeller's clientele, which is the Eastern Seaboard liberal establishment, is greatly needed in support of tough defense policies.

There is talk about William Scranton for Secretary of State, notwithstanding Mr. Scranton's adamant disavowals of interest. Again, Mr. Scranton is a highly competent man and a diplomatic man. Such is Mr. Nixon's own interest in foreign policy that what he desires primarily is an effective surrogate, and Mr. Scranton would make that, no doubt about it. And he is not -- unlike Rockefeller -- a magnetic field which would interfere with the orderly flow of electricity in a Nixon Administration. Rockefeller's personal assertiveness could fairly easily be integrated if exercised in a department (Defense) where such attributes are necessary for survival, and when in pursuit of policies directly synchronized to the president's. The same qualities, in a Secretary of State, could make life not worth living for any president, even Humphrey.

So, Rockefeller, Scranton. Who else? There is talk of John Lindsay, incredibly. It cannot be because Mr. Nixon needs Mr. Lindsay -- what for? If he cannot run New York City, surely he cannot run the Department for Urban Affairs? The talk, undoubtedly specious, is based on the recognition that Mr. Lindsay might very well be looking for refuge from the lowering storm.

And in California, they are saying that Senator Thomas Kuchel, the lame duck, will be named Secretary of the Interior. Without knowing much about what Mr. Kuchel knows about the Interior, it would appear that such an appointment would be calculated rather to help Mr. Kuchel than to help the Interior, and it is not clear to me what is the nature of the debt to Mr. Kuchel by a party whose last four nominees (Goldwater, Murphy, Reagan, Rafferty) Mr. Kuchel declined to back.

So, okay Rockefeller, Scranton: ixnay Lindsay, Kuchel.

IT'LL BE AN HONEST GAME... HONEST!

With just a trace of trepidation showing in his expression Joel Beason (right), player-coach of the Warren High faculty, assures trooper Jack Barnes of the Warren State Police substation that tonight's benefit game at the high school will be on the up-and-up. (Photo by Mansfield)

Law Meets WAHS Faculty

Some solid basketball and a little bit of frivolity are in store for sports fans tonight when one of the dreaded rivalries of the area cage scene is renewed on the Warren Area High School gym floor at 8:00 p.m.

The intrepid WAHS Faculty will exhibit its skills before the student body and the public against the strong Lawmen, a daring team of peace officers-turned-cagers.

The game is being staged for the benefit of the varsity club, and with the prospect of aiding that organization plus seeing the first local basketball game of the season, a large crowd is anticipated.

All tickets for the contest are 50 cents.

Sayers Out Of Hospital

CHICAGO (AP) — As he does everything on a football field, Gale Sayers Friday eased out of a hospital fast—for a man who had major knee surgery six days ago.

Chicago Bear halfback Sayers, unanimously tabbed the National Football League's most exciting runner, walked out of Illinois Masonic Hospital wearing a 15-pound cast on his right leg but spurning a crutch.

"His recovery so far is fantastic," said the orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Theodore Fox, who performed a three-hour operation on Sayers shortly after the Bear superstar was seriously injured against the San Francisco 49ers.

"I tried to give Gale crutches Tuesday, but he wouldn't use them," said Dr. Fox.

Sayers met newsmen and photographers, his blue slacks completely covering his cast.

In his first interview since the ligaments and some cartilage were torn in his knee on a routine running play, Sayers said he expected to return to action next year without any mental block.

Dr. Fox said Sayers will switch in two weeks from the 15-pound cast to a lighter one for three more weeks, all the time exercising the leg at home.

"He's a week ahead of anybody I know who had a similar injury," the doctor said. "Gale will be back next year as good as ever, you have my word for it."

Sayers, who will attend Sunday's Bear-Atlanta Falcon game here, explained the injury which stunned the pro football world and brought him thousands of letters and phone calls of sympathy.

"I knew right away the leg was gone. It was on a 28 (play number) toss to the left, Kermit Alexander was Randy Jackson's man to block. It wasn't Randy's fault when Kermit ducked under him.

"When he (Alexander, 49er defensive back) hit me, I felt the knee give. It didn't pop. It just gave. I knew it was gone and I told somebody to have them come and get me from the bench.

"I passed out while they were carrying me to the sidelines, but I came to again as soon as we got to the sidelines.

The Lawmen will field a veteran-laden roster (no, officer, that's not slang for old men) of Jack Barnes, Bill Dudinack, Gary Rains, Mickey Dixon, Bob Reese, Joe Font, Ed Lindberg and Gary Holcomb. Rising from behind their desks to oppose this aggregation will be Joel Beason, Ron Isaacson, Lee Chew, John Eggleston, Bob Hovan and Tom Tourtellott.

Despite the light-hearted nature of the contest, the rosters of both teams are staffed with players of some local repute, and a good game has been promised by Trooper Barnes and Beason, the respective coaches.

Last season's two meetings were split between the clubs, with the lawmen taking the second encounter by four points after the faculty had chalked up a two-point win.

O.J. LEADS USC EFFORT

Colleges Vie For Bowls

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

O. J. Simpson, carrying a million dollar price tag, leads top-ranked Southern California into its biggest test of the college football season Saturday on a day when the muddled post-season bowl picture may begin to clear.

Offered the million dollars earlier this week for the management of his services, Simpson is putting off even thinking about such things until the season is over, content for the time being to be the leading warhorse for the Trojans.

"We have three tough ball games to play yet," Simpson says. "I don't want to get my mind cluttered up with money and business right now."

The business at hand for Simpson and the Trojans is 13th ranked Oregon State, currently tied with USC in the Pacific Eight standings. Each is 4-0 in conference play, and the host spot in the Rose Bowl likely will be decided in this one.

The game will be nationally televised by ABC starting at 4:15 p.m. EST. It's the first game of a unique doubleheader in which No. 16 Alabama meets Miami, Fla., in the nightcap at 8 p.m.

While USC will be looking to lift its 7-0 record and move on to the Rose Bowl, second ranked Ohio State will be trying to move toward the other Rose Bowl berth against Iowa. Ohio State, however, has its big test the following week against Michigan.

The fourth ranked Wolverines, 7-1 over all but even with Ohio State at 5-0 in the Big Ten, first must get by Wisconsin this Saturday.

Third ranked Penn State, meanwhile, meets Maryland and could put a lock on an Orange Bowl berth with a convincing triumph. The Nittany Lions could wind up meeting the winner of the battle between fifth rated Georgia and 12th rated Auburn.

Among the teams in the bottom half of the top 10 there also are four games with bowl overtones. Sixth ranked Missouri and seventh ranked Kansas, both 7-1, meet Oklahoma and Kansas State, respectively, while No. 8 Texas takes on TCU and No. 10 Arkansas meets SMU in important Southwest Conference games.

Missouri currently is 5-0 in the

Al Kaline Receives Lou Gehrig Memorial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Al Kaline, veteran outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, was named Friday the 1968 winner of the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award.

The award is presented to the major league baseball player who best exemplifies the performance and character of the New York Yankees' first baseman.

Kaline batted .379 in the Tigers' World Series triumph over St. Louis last month. It was his first appearance in the classic.

Manager Jackie McCoy, who ushered the former East Los Angeles gang fighter from obscurity to the World Boxing Association version of the 126 pound champion, disclosed the retirement.

McCoy said he advised his 28 year old slugger to quit the ring immediately following the Saijyo match. In 39 fights, Rojas lost but three, one in the last seconds of the 15th round to the then champion, Vicente Saldivar of Mexico.

McCoy has told intimates Rojas is comfortably fixed, has a large equity in a five unit apartment building and is still working as a marine checker on the docks in San Pedro.

Rojas, boxing for the most part of his career for the Olympic Boxing Club here, is credited in a large measure with reviving fan interest in the fight game in Los Angeles. He won 20 straight bouts which earned him a shot at Saldivar and the title.

Saldivar retired and Rojas won the WBA recognition when he whipped Enrique Higgins of Colombia here last year.

American Golfers Tie For World Cup Lead

ROME, Italy (AP) — Julius Boros, the relaxed 44-year-old veteran from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fired a two-under-par 70 and Lee Trevino, U.S. Open titleholder, had a 71 Friday as the American team recovered from a three stroke deficit and soared into a first place tie in the World Cup Golf Championship.

The 141 gave the United States tandem a 36-hole total of 283, five-under-par. The Taiwan team of Lu Liang Huan and Hsieu Yung Yo slumped to 144 and also had 283 at the halfway mark of the competition formerly called the Canada Cup Tournament.

Lau shot his second consecutive 69, but his partner had to settle for a 75 in difficult playing conditions caused by a steady drizzle.

The comeback by the Americans was sparked by Boros' eagle 3 on the 507 yard fifth hole. He slammed the ball out of a ditch to the green and then holed a 15-hole putt.

"I'm glad I felt a lot better on the greens," said Boros, who had trouble putting while shooting a 73 in the opening round.

Boros had a 34 on the front nine and a 36 coming home.

Trevino was out in 35 and had a 36 over the final nine holes of the day's round. The Americans are 4-1 favorites to win the 42-nation tournament which United States teams have won nine times since it was inaugurated in 1953.

The two leading teams were five strokes ahead of the field. Italy and Ireland are deadlocked for third at an even par 286. New Zealand is fifth at 289. Britain, which was only one stroke behind the leader after the opening round, skied to a pair of 75s by Neil Coles and Bernard Hunt and dropped into a sixth place tie with Argentina at 290.

Scotland, Wales, Japan and Canada are deadlocked at 291, a shot in front of South Africa and Spain. Gary Player, the South African star, had a second round 70, but his teammate, Cobie Le Grange, had a 74.

The day's finest rounds were recorded by Jimmy Kinsella of Ireland and Takaaki Kono of Japan, each with a four-under-par 68 for the 6,850 yard Ogiata course.

Jean Charles Rey of Monaco scored the first hole in one of the tournament by holing his tee shot on the 169-yard seventh hole. However, the amateur player from Prince Rainier's tiny kingdom wound up with an 85. In addition, he was ineligible to receive an automobile given to professionals making a hole in one.

Market Posts Slight Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market struggled out of irregularity and posted a slight gain on balance late Friday afternoon. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up nearly a point and gains outnumbered losses by close to 150 issues.

The market wallowed in conflicting cross currents in early trading but gradually worked its way onto a slightly higher plane.

Gold-mining stocks were strong on news of currency jitters in Europe and an increased speculative demand for gold. Homestake and Campbell Red Lake rose more than a point each, and Dome Mines gained more than 2. McIntyre Porcupine and Benguet tacked on fractions.

Xerox slipped a couple of points on profit taking, following its upsurge on news merger talks with C.I.T. Financial were terminated. C.I.T., untraded all of Thursday, opened on a block of 108,000 shares, losing 7 1/2 at 48 and stretched its loss to a full 8 points in later dealings.

Sinclair Oil rose 4 and Atlantic Richfield 3 1/2. A subsidiary of British Petroleum has agreed to buy some of their holdings.

I.T.E. Imperial was pushed to the top of the most-active list by a block of 206,900 shares and trimmed a fractional loss.

Also active, Seaboard Financial gained 4, Marcor Inc. 3, Twentieth Century-Fox more than a point, Bethlehem and Thikol at a point each.

A meeting of the local firemen was also held on Thursday evening in the fire hall.

A serious road condition is existing for approximately two miles on Route 346 where grading and filling has been made preparatory to road construction. It is too hazardous to use, yet residents living along this stretch of road are forced to risk driving in order to get to work. The Bradford school bus had to be hauled out by the Corydon Twp. Road truck on Tuesday morning. If an emergency such as an accident or a fire occurred, it would probably be impossible to render service.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Erickson were dinner guests on Monday at the Holiday Inn, the occasion was their wedding anniversary.

A number of local firemen were busy last Monday evening in search of a Bradford man, lost in the woods. When Mr. Thomas Keane failed to return home, a search for the car was launched by state police and others. It was discovered by the Will-O-Creek Sports Shop. Mr. William Good, Deputy Sheriff, and the young man's father-in-law followed a woods road for several miles, and about 2 a. m. found the hunter, who had built a small fire for warmth.

Three auxiliary members were present at the fire barn to serve coffee to the rescuers.

Rembrandt Etching Returned

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A 300-year-old Rembrandt etching valued at $3,200 was returned to the Harpur College Art Gallery Thursday night, little more than a day after it was stolen.

The four-by-six-inch etching, entitled "Christ Disputing the Doctors", is being returned to its owner, John Wilson, of Lakeside, Mich.

Michael Milkovich, director of the gallery, told police a man telephoned that the etching was under the door of the gallery office. He found the undamaged etching in a sealed white envelope.

Mayor Tate's State Power Questionable

HARRISBURG (AP)—Philadelphia Mayor James H.J. Tate may have solidified his control of that city's Democratic Party during the Nov. 5 election, but at this point his statewide power is not so apparent.

This could be significant in light of talk that Tate has become so powerful he could become the party's nominee for governor in 1970 or hand-pick a candidate.

The most astute politicians can find little fault with the mayor's performance in producing a 267,000 plurality for Hubert H. Humphrey and 178,000 for Sen. Joseph S. Clark in Philadelphia.

But control of the Democratic State Committee lies not in performance but in votes on the party's Policy Committee, which chooses candidates for statewide offices. And at this point, there is no one person with enough votes to control that committee.

To be a member of the Policy Committee, one must be an official of the Democratic State Committee; an elected administrative statewide official, such as the auditor general; county chairmen who either carried their counties for Humphrey or produced 40,000 votes for him; members of the state executive committee; and other state Democratic leaders.

The Policy Committee to be formed as a result of the Nov. 5 election will total 71, compared to the current 64.

Of those 71, five would be from Philadelphia as members of the executive committee. Tate himself would be a member as one of the 15 Democratic leaders. A veteran party observer said that if things went as expected, the mayor could expect another four votes from among the 15 Democratic leaders. That would give him a total of 10.

The observer said Mayor Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh could have control of nine votes, but there's no way of telling now if he and Tate would be allied when maneuvering begins in about a year for the 1970 gubernatorial race.

It also should be noted that while Tate's strong showing in Philadelphia didn't necessarily increase his statewide hold, neither did Barr's poorer showing in Pittsburgh diminish his statewide influence.

Barr gave Humphrey a plurality of just 40,000 in Pittsburgh, but couldn't keep Allegheny County from going for Republican Richard S. Schweiker in the U. S. Senate race.

The leading statewide vote getter Nov. 5 was Auditor General-elect Robert P. Casey, who won by 441,000. Yet Casey at this point has no power base on the Policy Committee, although his vote total would make an attractive argument for his cause. He also will head a department with 700 non-civil service employees.

The party observer said it would be at least a year before any test is likely of an individual's power. But it's obvious that despite Tate's fine showing in Philadelphia, he has considerable work to do before he commands the same control in Pennsylvania statewide as he has demonstrated in Philadelphia.
